WINDOM'S SILVER BILL

Full Text of the Administration Measure.

THE MINTS TO BE DEPOSITARIES

Treasury Notes to Be Given in Exchange for Silver Bullion.

FOREIGN PRODUCT IS EXCLUDED

The Notes Issued to Be Receivable for all Public Debts, and May Be Redeemable in Gold Coin

WASHINGTON Jan 19—The following is the text of the administration bill prepared by Secretary Windom embodying the silver measure proposed in his annual report and which will be introduced in both the house and senate during the coming week

Be it enacted, etc That any owner of silver bullion product of mines in the United States or of ores smelted or refined in the United States, may deposit the same at any coinage mint, or at any assay office in the United States that the secretary of the treasury may designate and receive therefor treasury notes hereinafter provided for, equal at the date of deposit to the net value of such silver at the market price, such price to be determined by the secretary of the treasury under rules and regulations prescribed based upon the price current in the leading silver markets of the world but no deposit consisting in whole or in part of silver bullion or foreign silver coins imported into this country or bars resulting from melted or refined foreign silver coins shall be received under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 2—That the secretary of the treasury shall cause to be prepared, treasury notes in such amount as may be required for the purpose of the above section and in such form and denominations as he may prescribe provided that no notes shall be of a denomination less than one dollar or more than one thousand dollars

Sec 3—That notes issued under this act shall be receivable for customs taxes, and all public debts, and when received into the treasury may be reissued and such notes when held by any national banking association shall be counted as part of its lawful reserve

Sec 4.—That notes issued under the provisions of this act shall be redeemed upon demand, at the treasury of the United States or at the office of an assistant treasurer of the United States by the issue of a certificate of deposit for the sum of the notes presented payable at one of the mints of the United States in an amount of silver bullion equal in value on the date of said certificate to the number of dollars stated therein at the market price of silver to be determined as provided in section 1 or such notes may be redeemed in gold coin at the option of the government provided, that upon demand of holders such notes shall be redeemed in silver dollars.

Sec That when the market price of silver as determined by the secretary of the treasury, shall exceed $1 for 371 25 grains of pure silver it shall be the duty of the secretary of the treasury to refuse to receive deposits of silver bullion for the purposes of this act

Sec. 6. That it shall be lawful for the secretary of the treasury with the approval of the president of the United States to suspend temporarily the receipt of silver bullion for treasury notes at any time when he is satisfied that through combinations or speculative manipulations of the market, the price of silver is arbitrary nominal or fictitious.

Sec That silver bullion deposited under this act and represented by treasury notes which have been redeemed in gold coin or in silver dollars may be coined into standard silver dollars, or any other denomination of silver coin not authorized by law for the purpose of replacing coin used in the redemption of notes

Sec 8.—That so much of the act of February 28, 1878 entitled An act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character as requires the monthly purchase and coinage into silver dollars of not less than $2,000 000 nor more than $4 000 000 worth of silver bullion, is hereby repealed

Sec 9—That any gain or shrinkage arising from the coinage which may be executed under the provisions of this act shall be accounted for and paid into the treasury as provided by existing law

Sec 10—That silver bullion, received under the provisions of this act shall be subject to the requirements of existing law and the regulations of the mint service governing the methods of receipt, determining the amount of pure silver contained, and the amount of charges and deductions if any to be made.

Sec 11. That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the purchase from time to time as may be required of silver bullion for subsidiary silver coinage

Sec 12 That a sum sufficient to carry out the provisions of this act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated

Sec 13 That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec 14. That this act shall take effect thirty days from and after its passage.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

Forecast of the Week—Important Measures to be Brought Up

WASHINGTON Jan 19—The Southern question in various phases will occupy a large part of the time of the senate during the coming week The feature of the week is expected to be Ingalls's exposition of his views with regard to the South and the political situation there

Bills for the admission of Wyoming and the organization of a territorial form of government in Oklahoma will be reported favorably

The ways and means committee is prepared to report to the house to take up the administrative customs bill and as this is a measure of great length and complexity, it may be expected to occupy the attention of the house for a number of days when it is under consideration

Should the speaker appoint a special committee on the world's fair early in the week, it is probable that they will speedily report back some plan for selecting a site by a vote of the house

THE SIOUX INDIAN RESERVATION.

The President Will Shortly Issue a Proclamation Throwing It Open to Settlers

WASHINGTON Jan 19—[Special Telegram]—It is expected that President Harrison will within the next day or two issue his proclamation throwing the Sioux reservation in South Dakota and Northern Nebraska open to settlement Settlers may enter upon the reservation and take the lands (about 10 000 000 acres) under the homestead laws as soon as the proclamation is issued There was some hesitation on the part of the president about issuing the proclamation until the weather in Dakota becomes less severe as many hardships would have to be borne by those who may go there to take up homes Under the law however, the proclamation must issue before March 2nd next Inasmuch as the weather will likely not be milder before that time it was concluded that it might as well issue at once The president also hesitated about the issuance of this proclamation until congress had fulfilled the promises made by the Sioux commission in their treaty with the Indians securing their signatures during the past summer and autumn He has concluded on the same day he issues his proclamation, to have introduced in both branches of congress a bill fulfilling the promises made to the Indians by the commission

Senator Pettigrew will introduce in the senate on Monday a bill providing that the government shall pay to the Indians the amount to be given them for their lands, upon the opening of the reservation The prices paid are $1.25 per acre for land taken during the first year, 75 cents per acre during the second year, and thereafter 50 cents per acre Instead of charging settlers this amount, Pettigrew proposes for the government to pay the money and give the lands free to homesteaders Precedent for this action has been set by the government in many instances where Indian reservations were thrown open for settlement

THE CHENEY POST OFFICE

A Certain Lady Has a Friend in Wanamaker

WASHINGTON Jan 19—[Special Telegram]—There are four candidates for the postmastership of Cheney in the state of Washington The office has just been made presidential and a new commission has to be made for somebody although the term of Postmaster Harms has not yet expired Two or three complications arise at this point and the case is made more perplexing from the fact that the postmaster general has quietly taken a hand in endorsing a candidate of his own After the three applicants had filed their papers Mr Wanamaker suggested to Representative Wilson that if he could do so he would like to have him recommend a certain deserving lady for the office She was a personal friend This upset all the calculations It might overturn important political arrangements if it were general It has raised the interesting question which applies to congressmen from forty two states whether it is better to be turned down and let the postmaster general have the patronage which rightfully belongs to the members or be stiff in their backbone, against the powers that be and insist on the patronage due and take chances on getting future favors from the administration There is a great principle involved which congressmen who are likely to want favors, consider seriously, on the face of it. The postmaster general has decidedly the best of it at either horn of the dilemma The Cheney office is one of the first cases that has come to light.

MORE SNOW IN THE SISKIYOUS

Blockaded Trains and Snow Plows Buried Three Feet Deeper.

THE SIERRAS STILL IMPASSABLE

Engines Attempting to Clear the Tracks are Plunged Into Huge Drifts and Abandoned—Bad News from All Points

PENDLETON Or Jan 19—[Special Telegram]—Upwards of 200 people are now at this depot being provided for by the Union Pacific owing to the blockade which holds the fort east of here. The snow plows working west and east are expected to meet at La Grande in a few hours There is no change in the general features of the situation since yesterday Some passengers are growing restless over the prolonged delay, particularly one gentleman who is due in St Louis on the 29th inst to act as the leading man in a marriage ceremony. Some kicking is being done by passengers but there is little room for it, as the railroad company through its agent here, Mr Hendee has done everything for the convenience and comfort of the passengers Two gentlemen traveling on passes are the most profuse in their complaint The main portion of the blockaded army are eating at restaurants in Pendleton at the expense of the railroad company, while a few are taking their meals in the dining car Leland paying 75 cents each for them There are two sleepers here, the Kamela and Racine, and quite a number of day coaches, four trains in all. The Hunt line trains are running regularly commencing yesterday Trains are expected to start out to morrow for all points A train arrived last night at 8 from Portland and one left at 9 for Portland The Spokane train arrived this morning from Spokane and Walla Walla via Umatilla bringing more passengers bound East The branch via Athena, Weston and Milton is completely closed and has been for nearly a week People in the east end of the county receiving no mail, being completely cut off From appearances snow will fall to night and it is possible that the blockade may be prolonged thereby The weather is colder and threatening and the end is not yet.

IN THE SISKIYOUS.

Another Blinding Storm Makes the Blockade Three Feet Deeper.

DUNSMUIR Jan. 19—[Special Telegram]—The fine weather of yesterday proved a rough weather breeder as at sundown the temperature soon sank to 15 degrees, but at 4 o'clock this morning the weather moderated to 26 degrees, when another blinding snow storm set in and did not stop till 5 o clock this evening when three feet more snow had fallen To night is cold and threatening

A company of six Western Union linemen in charge of Foreman C H Coop left Gibson yesterday morning and came up the road on foot as far as the snow plow had cleared, where finding further progress impossible, they cut down a telegraph pole and split it up and made it into snow shoes, and thus crossed the gap of five miles between the two snow plow gangs, and came into town at dark, tired and hungry

The force of shovelers and others who were working south from here came straggling home last night, the last one coming into town at daylight this morning after forty eight hours work on one meal and no sleep One engine was brought in and the others are snowed in, with very little wood or water between the fourteenth and fifteenth crossings

Superintendents Lindberg and Cooley were personally superintending this work, and after a few hours' sleep, started out again with three engines, with a pilot plow to re open southward They make a run as far as they can and then dig out the engine and back up and take another shot at the snow Progress is very slow The plow that left here Wednesday morning has just left Sisson It will be turned and started back to night Two of the engines on the Edgewood plow are disabled A tree fell and broke down a trestle north of Edgewood

SUPERINTENDENT FILLMORE HOPEFUL

General Superintendent Fillmore of the Southern Pacific Company, when asked to-day as to the condition of the roads on the Central Pacific and Oregon lines, said, in substance

"The northbound train that Colonel Crocker is on may reach Dunsmuir to night. There is a snow plow and a gang of shovelers working ahead of the train, and a plow with three of the heaviest engines on the road is working south from Edgewood. About 200 men and a wrecking crew are with the plow If the snow had not fallen afresh this afternoon Colonel Crocker's train would almost certainly have reached Dunsmuir to night, and possibly it may reach there yet, at a late hour If so we may get a train through on the Oregon line to morrow (Monday) night As to the Central Pacific, by doing heavy work, the line eastward may be opened to morrow night but there is yet lots of work to be done on that line

We have plows and shovelers at work near Emigrant Gap but the plows are not doing much good Still they may get the line open by Monday night. We have ten plows in all at work, and about 1,500 men We get men from San Francisco, Sacramento, Marysville and all towns along the line, paying them $2 a day for their work and furnishing them with food We made a contract with a firm in Paterson, N J last summer for a large rotary plow of an improved pattern which would have been able to work in any depth of snow The plow was to have been delivered the 15th of November, but the company had a strike in their shops and were in other ways delayed and I have a telegram from New York saying the plow will leave there to morrow but it will take two weeks at the least to get here and will arrive too late to be of use in the present difficulty

The hotels are suffering from the cessation in trade and the registers show very few Eastern names What with snow blockades in the north and washouts in the south, travel overland has reached the minimum. The Sunset route is almost as great a sufferer from washouts as the Central and Oregon lines are from snow, and the running of trains is very irregular The only line from this city direct to Chicago is the Atlantic & Pacific, and it is doing a big business

WILL LAST SEVERAL DAYS LONGER.

RED BLUFF Cal Jan 19—The weather is very cold with high south wind and little rain. If present weather continues the blockade on the Oregon road will probably last several days longer

INDICATIONS OF FURTHER STORM.

SHASTA, Cal, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—Six inches of snow fell here to-day. The weather is now cold and foggy, with indications of further storm.

THE BLOCKADE IN THE SIERRAS

Snow Plows Can Make No Headway—Snow Eight Feet on a Level

TRUCKEE, Cal, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—The present storm is conceded to be the heaviest since the winter of 1876 and '77. All the roads leading out of Truckee, which is on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains, are blockaded, the depth of snow ranging from eight feet on a level to twenty feet where it has drifted. The railroad company has several hundred men shoveling snow east of here. A snow plow with an engine started from here but only went about a mile when it became blockaded. Shovelers finally cleared a road so the plow was enabled to return here. In large cuts the snow has drifted to a depth of fifteen to thirty feet. A snow plow with five engines was on the road thirty-six hours attempting to reach tunnel No. 13, about eight miles from here, but the attempt had to be abandoned and the entire crew returned on foot, leaving the snow plow blockaded in both directions; another snow plow with twelve engines started to clear the road to Summit but only succeeded in getting two miles from here, when they were securely blockaded on both sides. Eleven hundred snow shovelers are at work near Blue canon.

S. Jacobs, a line repairer, left Summit Friday and has not been heard from. As a severe storm has prevailed since, apprehension is felt for his safety.

FOUL MURDER DONE.

Investigating the Supposed Suicide of D. M. Brown at Olympia

OLYMPIA, Wn, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—The public opinion of to-day, according to a number of persons who viewed the body of D. M. Brown, who the coroner's jury claim committed suicide yesterday, is that foul play has been done, as there are no powder marks visible, and that the ball had turned and entered his head lengthwise. Your reporter on learning these facts immediately interviewed the coroner, in company with the two brothers of the deceased, who concur in the opinion expressed above. The coroner's jury, from the evidence they had, without doubt rendered their verdict such as they honestly believed to be true, so no blame can be attached to them. An investigation will be made to-morrow, as the brothers of the deceased intend that the matter shall be probed to the bottom.

MORPHINE CURES DESPONDENCY

A Fallen Woman Takes Her Own Life—Supposed to Have Relatives Near Portland

SEATTLE, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—Mamie Stetson, a fallen woman, suicided this morning by taking an overdose of morphine in an uptown lodging house through despondency brought on by sickness and fear of the desertion of her lover, Sam F. Gumberts. Of the woman very little is known. She gave several names, but a letter left gave the name of Mamie Stetson. She arrived here six months ago from Portland, near which place she is supposed to have relatives living. She is a native of California, 28 years of age, of Spanish descent, and lived for a time at San Francisco.

TYCHO BRAHE'S STAR

Erroneously Known as the Star of Bethlehem—An Old Rumor Revived

BOSTON, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—Professor Pickering of Harvard university discredits the Vienna cable of a few days since which stated that the "Star of Bethlehem" is again to be visible this year, being its seventh appearance since the birth of Christ. He says:

The report is probably an unauthorized revival of the old rumor that this star, erroneously called the Star of Bethlehem, was to make its appearance, but as the statement has been made several times since 1878, when the star was looked for by some astronomers, there is doubtless nothing in it. The star referred to was one discovered by Tycho Brahe in 1572, and was named for him. It appeared quite suddenly in the constellation of Cassiopeia and had a brilliancy greater than that of any of the planets, so much so that it was visible in the daytime for several seconds. It appeared in the same position 312 years before, or in 1260, and assuming this interval of appearance to be correct it would have been visible about the time of the Christian era, and it was thus termed the "Star of Bethlehem." The 312 years time of its reappearance would have been in 1884, but nothing has yet been seen of it, although many observers watched for it at that time. Such a phenomenon at the present day would have the highest value to astronomical science.

THE ENGLISH CHANNEL BRIDGE

It Will Be Twenty-four Miles Long and Take Twelve Years to Build

LONDON, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—The promoters of the project for building a bridge across the English channel propose to start the structure to-morrow between Grisnez and Ambleteuse, to pass over the two rocky banks of the Varne and Colbart, ending at Folkestone, a distance altogether of about twenty-four and a half miles, the greatest depth being about 180 feet, or about double that worked in the Forth bridge. The bridge will be lighted at night, each pier forming a lighthouse. The total height of the structure, measured overall from the bottom of the foundation to the highest point on the towers, is 600 feet. It is estimated the work can be completed in twelve years. The bed of the [illegible] cost of [illegible] which is by [illegible] of bridge piers [illegible] 40 feet by 85 feet [illegible] by 325 feet clear [illegible] at high water being allowed for the passage of vessels.

POLITICS IN OKLAHOMA

The Republican Convention Adopts Resolutions Favoring Territorial Government

ST. LOUIS, Jan 19—The Oklahoma republican convention, after two days' session, adjourned late last night. A territorial executive committee was elected to look after the interests of the party, and resolutions were adopted indorsing the republican national platform and the Harrison administration, urging the necessity of an early territorial government, and extending a hearty and cordial welcome to all honest and industrious colored men as emigrants to Oklahoma, pledging to them the enactment of laws guaranteeing to colored citizens the same rights and privileges as enjoyed by the white.

COLLISION ON THE MISSISSIPPI

A Steamboat Sinks a Barge—Four Deck Hands Supposed to Be Drowned

VICKSBURG, Jan 19—The steamboat Katie Robbins collided early this morning with a barge towed by the steamer John Bakers. The barge capsized and sank. The Robbins' bow was crushed in on the starboard side just forward from the furnace doors, shoved up to the hurricane deck. Four deck hands are missing, and they are doubtless lost. Three ladies and gentlemen passengers were aroused from sleep when the boat struck and got out with difficulty, but lost their baggage.

OBSTACLES BESET THEM BOTH

A Slow Steamer May Defeat Miss Bisland While the Snow Blockade Threatens Nellie Bly.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—In little more than a week the race around the world between Miss Bisland of the Cosmopolitan Magazine and Miss Nellie Bly of the New York World will be over. Both of them are endeavoring to make the trip around the world in faster time than the eighty days of Phineas Fogg, the hero of Jules Verne's story, and both are in a fair way to do it. Both left New York on November 14th, Miss Bly having a start of twelve hours and going east, while Miss Bisland went west. Five days later Miss Bisland reached here while her rival was still on the Atlantic. Miss Bisland left San Francisco for the orient on the steamer Oceanic, losing two days here. Telegraphic advices state that she arrived at Paris yesterday morning three hours too late to take the fast steamer to New York, so she rushed by train and connections to Queenstown to overtake the Canadian, the Bothnia. Unfortunately the Bothnia is a slow boat. She can hardly make the run in less than ten days at the best, and with the prevailing westerly gales she may be twelve days in getting to New York. This will make Miss Bisland's time (supposing the Bothnia makes a ten days' passage) just seventy-six days around the world.

It is possible that Nellie Bly will reach here to-morrow. Although the steamer from China on which she took passage is not due until Tuesday next, two representatives of the World were sent out to meet her here, but they are snowed up on the Central Pacific somewhere in the Sierras. Her paper has ordered a special train to bear her eastward at least for a part of the distance. If the blockade continues she will be forced to travel the Southern route, it being on a par with Miss Bisland and her slow steamer. But if the blockade is raised she will be able to reach New York on Monday the 27th, winning the race and making the extraordinary record of seventy-four days.

McNULTY RECAPTURED

The San Francisco Murderer and Jail Breaker Again in Prison

SUNOL, Cal, Jan 19—J. McNulty and H. Edwards, two of the six prisoners who escaped from the county jail in San Francisco last Sunday morning, were captured near Pleasanton this afternoon by Constable Jones of Walnut creek. H. C. Jones and R. E. McPherson, escaped prisoners, stopped at a house near Doherty's station last night, leaving there this morning. They were overtaken and recognized by the Jones brothers, who passed them and summoned McPherson to their aid. The three men then waited until the escapes came along the road, when they were covered by revolvers, taken and handcuffed without any trouble.

The prisoners were taken to Pleasanton, and the party left for San Francisco on the evening train. McNulty, the murderer, had changed his clothing and tried to disguise himself otherwise.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—McNulty and Edwards, the escaped prisoners who were captured near Pleasanton this afternoon, were brought here this evening and lodged in the county jail.

The first clew to McNulty's identity was given by his craving for whisky. When in sight of Walnut creek Thursday, both men were wet and cold, and McNulty insisted they should go into a saloon and take a drink. While there one of the men in the room thought he recognized McNulty by his published description. Both prisoners soon left, but a search was instituted. They eluded their pursuers for a time, but were discovered this afternoon sitting on a gangplow near the road. The prisoners surrendered after a short parley.

MUST GET BLOOD TO DRINK

She Is Pretty and Intelligent, But When the Unnatural Desire Comes Upon Her She Acts Like a Fiend

A malady of a most remarkable and distressing nature has recently attacked the young daughter of Winthorp Davis, who owns one of the largest sawmills in this vicinity, says an Atlanta, Tex., correspondent in the New York Sun. The young lady is in her sixteenth year and when in her normal health of an amiable, rather shrinking disposition and possessed of no small claim to beauty, besides being intelligent and well advanced in her studies. About three months ago she fell into a low melancholy state and displayed a singular aversion to all society, refusing entirely to converse at times and exhibiting a sullen, angry disposition when questioned or remonstrated with.

All food was rejected for several days until a piece of freshly killed beef was accidentally brought into her presence, when she threw herself upon it with all the savage greediness of a famished animal and began to tear and rend it with her teeth, sucking the blood with a relish. Since then at periods varying from three to seven days she is seized with the same thirst for blood, and when brought in sight of it will drink it with avidity in spite of all efforts to restrain her. Such efforts are attended with much danger, for during these attacks she fails to recognize even the members of her family and will snap and bite at any one attempting to molest her.

Her entire appearance undergoes a change, her usually gentle expression becoming inhumanly ferocious, her eyes bloodshot and glaring, while her jaws snap furiously and she utters a hideous snarling and growling. Her face becomes suffused with blood and her hair bristles on her head like that of an angry animal. Once satiated with blood she falls into a deep sleep as if from intoxication, and on awakening seems to have no remembrance whatever of her singular attack, and is once more her quiet, lady-like self, only complaining of severe headache, which frequently lasts until her next seizure.

Physicians who have seen her are at a loss to account for the cause of her malady, and have up to the present failed entirely to relieve her. By the advice of several attempts have been made to keep her from the sight of blood, but the result is so distressing that it is now thought best to allow her to gratify her unnatural thirst. Unable to do so otherwise she attacked her own flesh, tearing it without any apparent pain and sucking the blood.

On another occasion, when seemingly herself, her attention was attracted to a younger brother who, having cut his hand, entered the house for the purpose of having the bleeding gash bound up. She instantly leaped across the room and without warning seized the boy's hurt hand in her mouth and bit him to the bone. It was only with the greatest difficulty that she could be made to release him, and when finally forced to let go gave vent to her rage in hoarse cries or rather screams like a wild beast cheated of its prey.

Mr Davis and his wife are persons of education and refinement, and profess themselves entirely unable to account for their daughter's strange affliction, as on both sides for generations there has never been any intemperance or mental disease.

THE SAMOAN TREATY.

It Provides the Islands Shall Be Neutral Ground.

MALIETOA TO BE DECLARED KING

Independence of the People and Their Right to Choose a Form of Government Recognized

NEW YORK, Jan 19—[Special Telegram.]—A synopsis of the Samoan treaty negotiated at the recent Berlin conference is printed here this morning.

Article 1 declares that the islands of Samoa are neutral ground, in which citizens and subjects of the three signatory powers, viz., America, England and Germany, have equal rights of residence, trade and personal protection. The three powers recognize the independence of the Samoan government and the free right of the natives to elect their king or chief or to choose their form of government according to their own laws and customs. Neither of the powers shall exercise any separate control over the island or the government thereof. It is further declared that Malietoa, who was formerly made and appointed king in 1881, shall again be so recognized hereafter.

Article 2 provides that Samoa shall give consent to all the provisions of the treaty before going into effect. Article 3 provides for the establishment of a supreme court in Samoa, consisting of one judge, who shall be appointed by the three signatory powers in common accord. On these failing he is to be named by the kings of Norway and Sweden. His decisions shall be final and his salary is $6000 a year, payable first year by the three powers in equal proportion and afterwards by the Samoan government.

The question of the right to the throne shall be settled by the chief justice, and he shall have power to settle disputes between the treaty powers, any such differences not being considered cause for war. The chief justice shall have the right to suggest the passage of any laws to the Samoan government which he thinks advisable. To his court shall be transferred civil suits and crimes committed by the Samoans against foreigners or foreigners against Samoans where the consuls have not jurisdiction. A court of claims to settle on the validity of existing land titles is provided for, with three commissioners at a salary of $300 each. The port of Apia will be a port of entry for all dutiable goods arriving in the Samoan islands. It is provided that heavy duties shall be levied for revenue purposes. Prohibition of liquor is established by the following section:

Spirituous, venomous or fermented liquors or intoxicating drinks whatever shall not be given or offered to any native Samoan or any South Sea Islander resident in Samoa to be taken as a beverage.

The treaty is agreed to by John Kasson, William Walter Phelps, George H. Bates, H. Bismarck, Holstein, Krauel, Edward B. Malet, Charles S. Scott and J. A. Crowe.

MEDICAL LEGISLATION

GRANTS PASS, Jan 17—[To THE EDITOR.]—Your editorial of January 16 in regard to doctors and legislators needs correction on some points. In the first place, there is no allopathic school of medicine, there are no allopathic doctors, allopathic treatment and never has been. We simply call ourselves physicians and confess allegiance to no "ism" or "pathy." There is no remedy that we cannot or do not make use of, be it homeopathic, eclectic or anything else, if we see fit to. I challenge anybody to prove that we are a medical sect and are the blind unreasoning adherents of any "school." If others call us allopaths and other objectionable names, we are not to blame. We simply call ourselves regular practitioners in contradistinction to the thousand tramps, shysters and others who deceive and swindle a too willing public. I know too well that the position of the profession toward the public will never be understood and that all attempts at medical legislation will be attributed to false motives, such as jealousy and a desire for protection, etc. But it does not seem to be too much to ask that a person who assumes the responsibilities of caring for and treating sick people should at least possess a fair knowledge of anatomy, physiology, pathology, chemistry, surgery and obstetrics, as well as a fair knowledge of the diagnosis of disease. These studies are as absolute and certain almost as that two and two make four. There can be no difference of opinion on these subjects, no "pathies" or "isms." Require all would-be doctors to have a good knowledge of these subjects and the question of treatment will readily adjust itself, and we will hear nothing more of the thousand and one dogmas which, whether in medicine or anything else, are simply devices to chain men's minds and hold them in bondage. No broad and enlightened mind will be trammeled by such things.

The falsely called allopathic doctors have made all of the great improvements and discoveries in medicine, surgery and the allied sciences. And why? Simply because being unconfined by isms they have followed the teachings of nature and recognized truth wherever found. Vaccination, anæsthesia and antiseptics have been discovered by the much abused allopaths so called. McDowell, Sims, Bigelow, Sayre, Gross, Koch, Virchow and all the other illustrious men in medicine and surgery belonged to the so-called allopathic school. Show me such an array of names in any other school and I will show you a few white black birds.

In regard to medical legislation, I believe it is necessary. People will be swindled the world over. Patent medicines have their uses, viz., to kill off fools and to help the printers. People will continue to take Dr. Swindler's Microbe Killer (made of sulphuric acid and other stuff) for all ills that flesh is heir to. The most eminent microscopists and pathologists tell us that anything taken internally that will kill a microbe will kill the patient first, but that makes no difference. Dr. Swoozler's kidney cure knocks the stuffin' out of Bright's disease on paper, while Sally Blackham's decoction of roots and yarbs annihilates ovarian tumors—in the imagination only. There are some diseases that always have been and always will be incurable, and it is in new cures for these diseases that the shysters and quacks drive the most thriving business. Humanity is firmly and full of superstitions even in this enlightened century. It is true we do not burn witches at the stake any more, but we believe in and do things even less creditable to our intelligence. When will this be done away with and common sense and reason reign supreme? Not until the condition of affairs related in Looking Backward comes to pass, where Dr. Leete tells the hero of the story that there are no more incompetent physicians, that everything has been so thoroughly regulated that they now stand all on the same plane of education and intelligence. Until that time comes things will have to go along as they are, and the eminent specialists on the indiscretions of youth who prowl around the country seeking whom they may terrorize and devour will have full swing. Blatherskites will advertise to cure consumption, Bright's disease, cancer, epilepsy and the other incurable diseases while common sense and reason will hide their heads for shame.

OVERCROWDED GRAVEYARDS

The Condition of England's Cemeteries a Cause of Alarm

Under the ominous heading of "Overcrowded Cemeteries," the Duke of Westminster writes to the London Lancet, urging the necessity of fresh legislation to correct the many abuses which exist in our present mode of burial. His grace repeats what has been frequently noticed in these columns, says the Lancet, that the large number of bodies interred in the metropolitan cemeteries—100,000 in twelve acres at the Brompton, a quarter of a million in the seventeen acres of the tower hamlets—would be no cause for alarm were they properly buried. An indefinitely greater number could, he remarks, be buried without harm to none if the mode of burial were in accordance with sanitary law. How thoroughly true this is may be proved by the following simple calculation. In suitable soil 1000 graves can be made in each acre without any overcrowding. If each body is buried in a perishable coffin and in the earth the resolution of the body is effected in a few years and another burial can take place without in any way diminishing the capacity of the grave for more interments. In other words graves and grave plots can be made capable of holding an almost unlimited number of bodies, while vaults, catacombs and bricked graves can only hold a very limited number. If the metropolitan cemeteries had from the first been managed as burial grounds in the strict sense of the word they would now be in the same position as many of our older churchyards—holding the dust of ages past and still having room for more.

Burial reform is not a thing of yesterday. More than two centuries ago Sir Christopher Wren strongly denounced the practice of burying bodies in the vaults of churches and advocated suburban burial grounds. And in the middle of last century the mortal remains of the saintly Bishop Wilson were, in accordance with his expressed wish, buried in the churchyard of Kirk Michael and not under the church, he wishing to set a good example and not to sanction so dangerous a practice. And yet in the Lancet of last week there was a notice of an application for power to bury a body in a vault beneath the parish church of Bebington, which has a large congregation at its Sunday services. And though the memory of good Bishop Wilson still remains in the island of which he was for more than fifty years bishop, his good example was not followed by several of the Manx churches having large numbers of dead in the vaults beneath them. Much has been done by individuals collectively and individually to set a good example in these days, and by no one more than the Duke of Westminster. It is well known that the burial of his late lamented son, Earl Grosvenor, was a model of simplicity in all its details, and he still continues the energetic president of the Church of England Burial Reform Association, whose indefatigable secretary, the Rev. F. Lawrence, has done so much to make burial reform popular with all classes. But much remains to be done. Burial under churches ought to be absolutely forbidden, the soil of the public cemetery should be for the use of all the parishioners and not partitioned off by walls into vaults or bricked graves. No coffins except those of a perishable kind should be allowed. These reforms will, it is to be feared, need legislation for their general adoption.

Wasteful Photographers

Do photographers know that they waste $1,000,000 every year in silver and gold—throw it away with the washings of photographs? That is what a writer in The Photographic Times tells us. At least half of this waste can be saved, and the economical photographer can in time become rich from his savings in a double sense. There is one point that never seems to occur to many Americans. It is that it is wicked to waste anything that can be of use to man.

ELECTRICITY IS THE LIFE

When properly applied and thoroughly diffused in the human system, but this when artificially applied must be done under the direction and able guidance of those who are by practice experienced in its use and applicability to the various diseases incident to nature, and with a careful provision as to the constitutional condition of the patient. Hence the wonderful success Dr. Darrin has over disease with the use of electricity and medicine, as the following almost miraculous cures will show. If they were not people well known in this community it would be hard to believe such cures possible.

The Markets.

The only market showing any activity whatever is the produce market, which, considering the blocking up of traffic in the South and East, shows a degree of life hardly to be expected. The supplies of various articles, with a few exceptions, are fairly liberal and trading is rather active. Wheat remains in its condition of masterly inactivity, the lack of demand from abroad conducing to a weak market. Following are the quotations on the leading articles:

WHEAT—Market unchanged. Quotations, Valley, $1 20@1 22½; Walla Walla nominal at $1 15.

EGGS—The supply continues very light, and the tendency is therefore to high prices; 45c is quoted for Oregon stock.

POULTRY—While the supply is liberal, prices have held up, the demand being good. Quotations, chickens, $4 50@5 50; ducks, $7 @9; geese, $9@11.

BUTTER—There are generous supplies of the California product, and a good demand. Oregon butter is scarce. Prices remain the same as last quoted, 25c for California, 35c for Oregon.

POTATOES—The market is in an active condition, with liberal supplies. Some dealers are shipping quite largely to Puget sound. Quotations, $1 50@1 75 per 100 lbs, according to quality and condition.

ONIONS—There is somewhat of a scarcity in this article, hence prices have advanced to $1 75 with none offering.

FRUITS—Eastern apples, $5 50 per barrel; Oregon, $1 50@2 per box with a slim supply. Oranges, Riverside Seedlings, $3 50 per box; Navels, $4 75@5 per box. Lemons are scarce, at $6 50@7 per box.

Other commodities in the produce market are in about the same condition as to supply, demand and prices as last quoted.

The merchandise market is dull, few movements in commodities being chronicled. No change from last quotations.

Gladstone as a Detective.

London World.

The death of Lady Susan Opdebeek recalls recollections of an incident, two of the principal actors in which, Lord Orford and Mr. W. E. Gladstone still survive. It will be remembered that Lord Orford, at that time only Lord Walpole, ran away from Lady Lincoln, whose husband was so close a friend of Mr. Gladstone. Lord Walpole and Lady Lincoln went to Italy, and Mr. Gladstone volunteering to act as a sort of private detective, went in pursuit of them, in order to obtain evidence for a divorce. After a good deal of fruitless journeying Mr. Gladstone ascertained that they had taken a villa on the shores of Lake Como, but when he arrived the birds had flown. However, he found out that a doctor in the neighborhood had attended at the villa, and he went to see him in the hope of obtaining a valuable witness. But, on Mr. Gladstone asking him to come over and give evidence, he flatly declined, and when Lord Lincoln's zealous friend, attributing his reluctance to a fear of being out of pocket, added, "But you will be well paid," the doctor turned round on him in a fury and said, "What! go and betray my good friend Lord Walpole, who has been so kind to me; you scoundrel, get out of my house!" So Mr. Gladstone's mission to Italy was not altogether a success.

The Importation of Wine.

New York Sun.

The importations of champagne in 1889 were larger than ever before. The receipts at this port for the past year were 285,304 cases, as against 252,316 for the previous year. Up to 1886 the importations of champagne at this port never exceeded 200,000 cases. The high grades of French red wines show an increase in demand. The importations of Bordeaux wines for the past year amounted to 724,124 gallons, and of Madeira 10,463 gallons. There was a slight falling off in sherry, of which 658,000 gallons were imported. The importations of port are steady, varying little from year to year, and amounting to 81,290 gallons. Of German and Hungarian wines, the total receipts at New York last year were 962,752 gallons. The receipts by water of California wines were greater than during any previous year, amounting to 3,279,505 gallons, while there were over 4,000,000 gallons sent by rail. Of California brandy 154,474 came by sea, and 222,533 by rail, a large increase over previous years.

The Philosophy of Memory.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

A gentleman in this city who is greatly interested in mental philosophy, has been engaged for a long time on a book on the memory, which he will publish some day. In the middle of a chilly night, not so very long ago, when the partner of his joys and sorrows was apparently lost in sweet sleep, the memory man suddenly jumped up in bed and exclaimed "Drat the luck! I forgot to fill the sitting-room stove."

In scanty attire he struck out for the coal cellar, and just as he disappeared there came from beneath the bed-covers, in a sleepy, tantalizing tone: "My dear, what chapter of your book did you say you were working on last evening?"

The blood-cleansing qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla render it invaluable in skin disorders.

Rheumatic Pains

Gradually give way to Hood's Sarsaparilla, as this great blood purifier neutralizes the acidity of the blood which causes rheumatism, and gives vitality and strength to the whole system. The fact that thousands of sufferers have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla is the strongest reason we can give why you should try this medicine if you are at all troubled by rheumatism.

"I have been ailing for several years with rheumatism and nervous diseases, and have had the best treatment with no benefit. I was finally induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have used four bottles. Since using it I have gained 20 pounds, and feel better than I have for years." ABRAM SAMS, Wauseon, Ohio.

"We could not do without Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the best medicine we ever kept in the house. My family are all taking it." MRS. J. M. BARBER; San Joaquin and Fremont streets, Stockton, Cal.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

ABSOLUTE PERFECTION IN BAKING —AND ALL— MEATS ROASTED IN THEIR OWN JUICES, BY USING THE

WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR

FOUND EXCLUSIVELY ON THE

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO.
CHARTER OAK
STOVES
612-618 N. MAIN ST. ST. LOUIS, MO.

MARVELOUS RESULTS

LOSS IN SHRINKAGE OF MEATS.

Very few people know that the Shrinkage of Meats roasted in a close oven is from thirty-five to forty per cent. All meat contains seventy-five per cent. of water and only twenty-five per cent of solid matter, and the loss that is made in the roasting is made in the evaporation of the juice which is the VITAL PART OF MEAT.

Effect of the SOLID OVEN Door.

A TEN pound Sirloin, medium or well-done, will be REDUCED TO SIX pounds and four ounces of Roasted Meat, showing a loss of three pounds and twelve ounces of juice. While the loss is 37½ per cent of the total weight, it shows the enormous LOSS OF FIFTY PER CENT OF THE JUICE.

Effect of WIRE GAUZE OVEN Door.

A TEN pound Sirloin, medium or well-done, will be reduced to nine pounds and eight ounces of Roasted Meat, showing a loss of eight ounces of juice. While this loss is five per cent of the total weight, it shows the very small LOSS OF BUT SEVEN PER CENT OF JUICE

PORTLAND, MONDAY, JAN 20

OREGONIANA.

The recent coal strike near this city, says the Sun Press is quite promising, the coal being much the best quality ever exhibited here. The frequency of coal finds hereabout would seem to indicate the presence of large and valuable deposits that have only to be sought for in an intelligent manner to be secured and utilized.

Every few days some change that makes it conform to the Southern Pacific is made along the line of the Oregon & California railroad. The last one is a general change of switch-locks. The old ones were of the Oregon & California pattern, but the new ones conform to the style in vogue over the entire Southern Pacific system.

Snow is about a foot deep on a level all through the Ochoco valley, and in some places it has drifted five or six feet deep. Everybody is feeding stock. Farmers generally have taken warning from former exceptional winters and have laid up sufficient feed to last through the season. Those who have not been so provident will undoubtedly lose a large percentage of their stock.

Mill City has a population of 200 souls. The Silverton Appeal says that not long since the census was taken and on summing it up it was found there was 198 persons living in the city, but early the next morning one of the citizens rushed into the presence of the census taker and exclaimed "You will have to do your work over." "Why?" says he. "Because the old woman has twins, which makes just 200."

The Albany Herald announces an enlargement within a short time and a more complete telegraphic news service will also be published. The Herald believes "that Albany's present growth, aided by railroad connections and other advantages, is destined to make this city the second in importance in Oregon, and as a factor in this growth the Herald proposes to use every legitimate endeavor to work for this end, and at the same time to publish as wide a scope of news as possible."

The Quartzville mines in the Santiam district are reported as giving encouraging prospects. The tunnel is 600 feet in length and passes through several fine ledges of gold and silver. Mr Early, the superintendent of the mine, came out to Mehama on the snow for supplies. Snow is nine feet deep at the camp and fifteen feet at the summit. McLaren Bros, of Portland and Wilhoit, are connected with these mines. Mr Early reports some of the best strikes in these mines that have ever been had in the Cascades.

Saturday there came to Salem a box car that left Detroit, Mich, sixteen days ago. It contained P. Harwood, wife and two babies, seven cows, two horses, two sheep and an endless assortment of household and kitchen furniture and farm appliances. A stovepipe had been pushed through a ventilator hole in the car and the smoke that wreathed the opening gave evidence those inside the car were not suffering from the cold. Mr Harwood said the trip was made easily and quite pleasantly, considering the crowded condition of the car.

The citizens of Halsey, Linn county, and the farmers of the surrounding country will meet February 1 to consider a plan for furnishing water-power to a large flouring mill to be erected at that place. It is proposed to tap the McKenzie river at some point near Coburg, there being a natural waterway extending nearly the entire distance from this point to Halsey, through which the McKenzie frequently overflows at high water. Along this course a canal can easily be opened to within a few miles above the town. There it may be turned out through the higher land and have at Halsey a fall of from twelve to fourteen feet, owing to the elevation on the south of the town.

WASHINGTONIANA

On the Big Bend ranges, says the Cheney Enterprise, cattle are dying by the hundreds and that every hoof will have to be fed or lost, as there is from two to three feet of snow all over the plains and more on the mountains.

Forty five miners' houses are about to be built at Bucoda. A lower vein of lignite coal is to be opened. The present mine is to be put in shape, immediately, to be worked to its fullest capacity. Fifty four men are employed there now.

A correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer from Glendale, Snohomish county, says that in one settlement in the valley of the North fork of the Stillaguamish river there are 400 people upon unsurveyed land, and he urges the necessity of prompt action on the part of the government.

Peter Birch, a cook in Whalen's logging camp in Thurston county, left Bucoda January 9, taking a short cut for the camp. The Skookumchuck had to be crossed on a log and Birch fell in. When rescued he had received a fatal chill and died soon after. He was an Odd Fellow and well known.

The Seattle Times reports considerable excitement near McMurray lake over the recently discovered coal and marble field near the Lake Shore road, and preparations are being made to start a saw and shingle mill and boom a town on the lake at a place where the Lake Shore and Fairhaven roads come within a few rods of each other.

The Cheney Enterprise is the name of a new paper, the first issue of which is just received. The salutatory says: "We have issued the Enterprise from Cheney for several good reasons. One is that a newspaper was needed here and the people desired a progressive journal to herald their resources, another is that Cheney is a central point as to railway facilities and becoming more so as the years roll by."

One of the most peculiar incidents connected with the recent sad drowning of Dr Minor, G. Morris Haller and E. Lewis Cox, says the Port Townsend Argus, was a dream that Mrs Haller had on the night of December 2, the night on which the drowning is supposed to have taken place. She dreamed that her husband stood before her with no coat or vest on, and drenched with water from head to foot. Naturally she was alarmed, and in the morning she related her experience to Mr Haller's mother and Mrs Minor.

ALBINA NEWS NOTES

A New Company Organized With a Capital Stock of $50,000. Other Items.

A new company, under the name of the Albina Light and Water Company, has been formed with a capital stock of $50,000. The company propose to furnish electric light and natural water to the people of Albina. The company, with H. C. Campbell at the head, has purchased the plant of the Albina Company for $29,000, also a lot 75x100 feet on the corner of Harding and Chapman streets, where they will erect an imposing two story brick building. In this they will place two steam pumps with a capacity of 15,000,000 gallons of water per day. There will be also two large engines in this building, one for running the dynamo propelling the electric street cars, the other for electric lights. When the present location is abandoned, the engine now used for the electric cars will be used to furnish power for the electric lights, while a new and more powerful engine will be used instead for the cars. A battery of three boilers with 300 horse power, will be used for the various engines. The Edison system of lighting will be used. The offices of the company will be in this building. At present a pump of three times the capacity of the old one is being used to supply the water demand until the new plant is finished. It is the intention of the company to extend the water mains through the city and place electric light poles and wires where required.

NO THROUGH TRAINS YET

The uncertainty still exists as to when through trains from the East will arrive over the Union Pacific. Every possible effort is being made to get the road open. One of the rotary snow plows is working between Telocaset and Union, and the other between Meacham and Kamela. They were about thirty five miles apart early last evening, but for fifteen miles of this distance the track was clear. The weather report last evening showed that it was clear in that section, that no wind was stirring and no snow falling. The company are taking the best possible care of the passengers and will get them and the mails through as soon as possible.

INTRODUCING EVIDENCE.

Reporters Take Testimony in the Aborn Mandamus Case.

Dr. Aborn is Determined to Fight it Out—The Board of Medical Examiners are Equally Decided in Their Course.

Dr. E S Aborn's writ of mandamus to compel the issuance to him, of a physicians certificate at the hands of the state board of medical examiners, promises to stir things up in the medical fraternity A representative of this paper called yesterday upon the doctor, and upon each of the examiners of the state medical board Dr James Dickson, Dr O P S Plummer and Dr James Brown The situation looks like the case of the irresistable and the immovable coming together Aborn has opened out an office in the Blumauer building, and says he will stay with it, even to testing the constitutionality of the present statutes before the supreme court On the other hand the board is engaged in collecting what evidence it can to impeach the standing of the colleges from which Aborn has diplomas The hearing of the case comes before Judge Shattuck Wednesday, and the board will undoubtedly represent that they must be allowed further time to obtain evidence upon which to base their action To a reporter Dr Aborn

MADE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT

I sent my diplomas out here last August to an attorney to get my certificate Now the board has fooled away five months and claim they haven't had time to make their minds up The fact is they are prejudiced against me, and want to keep me from doing business.

My diplomas are from the Eclectic Medical college of Philadelphia, and the Hahnemann Medical college of Chicago They are legal in any part of the world I made my application in due form, and tendered the requisite fee The law is plain enough. They are required to issue me a certificate upon such a showing. They are exceeding the authority, decidedly in conceiving the idea that they can throw out anybody they may have a prejudice against.

I was here seventeen or eighteen years ago and was very successful in my practice here I make a specialty of eye, ear and lung troubles though I do not antagonize any ordinary school of practice. They make some pretext about the fact being renewed on my name in the Philadelphia diploma. All they need to do to corroborate it is to go to the record of the court of common pleas there for May 16, 1864 I have been paying rent here since October 1st and don't propose to be denied my certificate. If I have to take it up to the supreme court to test the constitutionality of the law I also showed them my certificate from the California board issued to me upon these same diplomas these people refuse. I have been practicing on this coast for twenty years and in San Francisco had great success

The doctor here showed letters from a number of distinguished men John F Irish recommends him as a physician and as a man whose interest in public and private enterprises makes a valuable addition to the society of any community

W W Harding owner of the Philadelphia Inquirer indorses him highly as does also H F Royce, superintendent of the Rock Island railroad Hon J S Clarkson, first assistant postmaster general, writes that he holds Dr. Aborn in high esteem, both as a physician and as a gentleman Other letters were shown, to the same effect

THE BOARD WILL ANSWER.

Dr James Dickson is quite interested in the matter. He said

We have had enough correspondence to establish the fact that the diplomas which Aborn offers are not from colleges in good standing The Philadelphia institution has had its charter taken away because it sold degrees The Hahnemann college at Chicago graduates over 40 per cent of its matriculates, which fact virtually amounts to giving a diploma to every one who is willing to pay for one. Taking into account that proportion of matriculates who are there only for temporary study, and who drop out from sickness and other natural causes 40 per cent. really amounts to giving all comers diplomas.

Now the board made a rule a long time before we had Aborn's application not to consider those institutions as of good standing within the meaning of the statute which graduate over 40 per cent of their matriculates. We were however anxious to do what was right so did not deny the certificate, but simply held the matter in abeyance until we could obtain further evidence So we have opened correspondence with various parties in the East. Some of them have responded and some have not The great trouble was we did not know where to make inquiries We have just recently discovered the name and address of the gentleman a man of high standing in the medical profession, who was instrumental in having the charter of the Philadelphia college taken away This college is published in the New York Medical Record, to which I have been a subscriber for a good many years, as an institution from which several state medical boards have refused to grant certificates upon its diplomas If we had acted upon our own information we should have denied the certificate at once But as we had no desire to wrong anybody but to do full justice to the doctor and the public, we deferred action for the additional information We have lost no time in the matter either, as the secretary's books will show

Mr McGinn will represent us at the hearing as we are state officials. Mr Giltner also has tendered his services

ALLEGED UNSAVORY REPUTATION

Dr O P S Plummer read the statutes bearing on the case, and produced the medical journals showing the ranking of the medical colleges He said

Aborn was here some seventeen or eighteen years ago and left rather an unsavory reputation behind him His diplomas are two—one from Philadelphia and one from Chicago The Philadelphia institution had its charter forfeited by an act of the legislature, though Aborn claims that the act provided for the legality of its diplomas already issued The matter, however, is in a decidedly mixed up shape and the college is far from being in good standing now, as contemplated by the statute The diplomas to entitle their holder to a certificate, are required to be "satisfactory" This must mean, I take it, satisfactory to the board of examiners Now the Chicago institution, the Hahnemann Medical college, as you can see from these tables graduates a large percentage of its matriculates Last year the per cent was above 43.

The doctor here showed a number of other tables where first class institutions graduate 20 30, 34 per cent of their matriculates He then continued

But there is no need for Aborn to go into the courts. The statute provides for the examination of candidates who present themselves. We have examined a number of physicians who had diplomas but did not have them here at the time and preferred to be examined The whole business could be settled in an hour if Aborn wants to be examined, on the first principles of the profession I should be perfectly willing to do this and I have no doubt Drs Dickson and Brown would also be willing There would be no objection to having the examination conducted in public or in the presence of Aborn's friends

THE BOARD NEEDS TIME.

Secretary of the board, James Browne being approached in regard to the matter, said

There is really nothing for us to do further than to ascertain the standing of the colleges from which Dr Aborn claims to have received his diplomas. If the colleges are not chartered under the laws of the state we have no right to give him a permit to practice medicine If they are regularly chartered institutions I think we have no right to refuse him Dr Aborn has two diplomas—one from the Eclectic medical college of Philadelphia, and the other from some medical school in Chicago the Hahnemann I think The Eclectic medical college of Philadelphia was originally the American college of medicine in Pennsylvania which was chartered sometime in 1853.

In 1869 I believe the institution changed its name to the American College of Medicine in Pennsylvania and Eclectic Medical College of Philadelphia and in 186[illegible] it became the Philadelphia University of Medicine and Surgery The institution sold diplomas under all three of these names In 1880 a test case tried in the state courts of Pennsylvania, resulted in the repeal of the college charter The charter was taken away and in fact, the institution went out of existence. Another issue of the proceedings however was the validation of all diplomas issued by the college previous to that time

If Dr Aborn's diploma is among those legalized by that decree I cannot see how we can withhold from him a certificate entitling him to practice medicine in this state. He cannot however compel us to grant him a [illegible] we have made an investigation and until all the evidence is in we are not prepared to state what course we will pursue.

In obedience to instruction from the board I as secretary have conducted the necessary correspondence to determine the validity of the doctor's diploma. We have [illegible] sufficient light on the subject [illegible] to get the necessary information from the Pennsylvania court and from regularly chartered medical institutions in that state.

We have no option in the matter as we are governed entirely by the law If the applicant for a certificate fills the requirements of the law we are obliged to accommodate him Personally I feel [illegible] and I do not care who knows [illegible] that even if the applicant is guilty of [illegible] unprofessional conduct we are not empowered to withhold a certificate from him if he has a [illegible].

Dr Browne as on previous other occasions again expressed his dissatisfaction with the medical law of this state Digressing somewhat from the subject under consideration, he said

The law is immoral and unjust As is well known there were two doors for entering the medical profession in the state One was by registering [illegible] at the time the law passed and the other by receiving a certificate from the state board of medical examiners. Those who registered [illegible] are not amenable to the [illegible] board has no jurisdiction over them [illegible] falls on those who receive licenses through the board They have to fill all the requirements of the law in order to get their certificates and consequently need [illegible] watching afterwards. They alone are amenable to the law, while the great majority who are allowed to practice medicine because of having registered can do just about as they like The public can see how the board is handicapped by the narrow limits of its jurisdiction

A DULL SUNDAY'S WORK.

An Impudent and Vicious Beggar Under Arrest

They Don't Like Electricity—Revival Meetings—Chinese New Year—Short of Supplies—Pioneer Woman Dead

A ONE LEGGED HOBO—Near the Stark street ferry landing yesterday, two gentlemen were accosted in an impudent manner by a one legged tramp who demanded money which was refused When the fellow saw he was not going to get anything he said "Well I did not want anything anyways" [illegible] young man standing near [illegible] remarked "That's right pard isn't it!" The young man said "I do not know what you are talking about" when the tramp struck him a violent blow in the face He was arrested [illegible] Patrolman Roberts and proved to be James Kennedy a professional hobo and beggar who was around [illegible] before he had served out his sentence on condition that he should leave the city. Instead of doing so he went out begging and having secured funds got drunk and threatened to strike a man with [illegible] He will probably [illegible] and will be sharply looked after as long as he stays here

THE POSTAL TO THE FRONT—Mr J F Hayes the Pacific Postal's enterprising manager in speaking of the telegraph situation yesterday said "The fact about the situation is that the Southern Pacific has given the [illegible] place on the Western Union's lines to San Francisco [illegible] they got in their [illegible] and the next to [illegible] company used itself. Now the Southern Pacific has been using our wires the past four days to handle their trains with and frankly say they could not [illegible] what they would have done if it had not been for our lines They may well say so for to [illegible] for them was very [illegible] When it comes to anything [illegible] lines we are right there and don't forget it"

IN A BLAZE OF GLORY—The Chinese New Year began last night, and Chinatown was in a blaze of glory with lanterns hung from every available point The stalls of Chinese hucksters are piled with all sorts of sugar [illegible] and candied fruits sweetmeats and other delicacies appropriate to the season including a peculiar article made of some kind of pastry in the shape of cannon balls of all sizes Just what they are good for no white man can imagine but one about the size of a man's head costs a dollar, and only weighs a few ounces The explosion of fire crackers was dispensed with last evening and just how the New Year is going to turn out when inaugurated under such unfavorable circumstances is what is puzzling the minds of the Chinese

REVIVAL MEETINGS—The revival meetings at Centenary M E church East Portland will continue all this week Mr C W Beers, of Portland is expected to assist in all the meetings and have charge of the singing Dr Bushong will district the city this week and send out bands to hold prayer meetings in the homes of the people There will also be meetings in the church each afternoon at 2 30 Despite the bad walking the church was filled at all the services yesterday The jubilee meeting in the evening was full of enthusiasm and interest Rev James Connolly the young evangelist, will leave to-day for Dayton Or to assist in the meetings now going on there

While crossing the Blue mountains her mother was taken sick with the cholera and soon afterward died. Miss James was married to Moses R Martin of East Portland August [illegible] Her husband died May 16 [illegible] The funeral of Mrs Martin will take place Tuesday (tomorrow) at 2 o'clock P M Friends are invited to attend the last sad rites.

The officer gave the reporter several copies of Friday's San Francisco papers the first that have been received in the city since the blockade on the Southern Pacific

POSTPONEMENT OF COMPANY I BALL—Invitations have been issued to the grand ball and guard mount of Company I for to-night, at Armory hall One of the objects of the occasion was to celebrate and "christen" the new full dress uniforms of the company but the uniforms being delayed on account of the snow blockade the committee have though unwillingly concluded to postpone the ball until next Monday January 27 by which time it is hoped everything will be ready for the evening's festivities

SOME LADIES OF PORTLAND who have been engaged for the purpose will call on the people of the city this week and next to sell tickets for Mr Atling[illegible]'s benefit entertainment for St. Mary's Home The liberality of our people toward this work of charity as shown in the past gives reason to expect that they will give their generous help also on this occasion Tickets are $1 apiece Every ticket to be honored for admission must bear the stamp of St Mary's Home

DON'T LIKE ELECTRICITY—The Chinese residing on Second street are complaining of the electric road They do not like the looks of the sparks which fly from the track and the overhead wire occasionally and say that the electricity makes them sick They should remember that if they get la grippe from an electric road they would be much worse off if they had a cable road along the street

PORTLAND. MONDAY, JAN. 20.

CHANGING INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS.

Under the favoring conditions of proximity to the source of raw materials, as well as proximity to food supply and market for finished goods, manufacturing industry is making rapid progress in the West and South. It is this competition, even more than that of foreign countries, that causes the East to set up its demand for free raw materials. In consequence of the development of manufacturing industry at the West and South, favored as this development is by proximity of raw materials and food supply, the East has not the same advantages that it possessed during the long period when it could get raw materials from the West and South on its own terms, and protection for its finished goods. It still, indeed, has protection for its finished goods, but has not the whole Western and Southern market which it so long enjoyed. Manufactures have sprung up in the West and South, in the midst of the supply of materials and of the demand for the goods; and the East now wants cheap foreign materials, as a means of meeting the competition of the West and South.

Of course the manufactures thus developing in the West and South are those next removed from the raw materials. This is the necessary first step. It will be followed gradually by an advance to finished goods of higher grades; indeed this further advance, in many localities, has already begun. As it makes further progress there will be increased disadvantage to the East, since the East will lose more and more of the Western and Southern market, as the West and South diversify their manufacturing industry and carry it to higher perfection.

At Philadelphia a "Directory of Textile Fabrics in the United States," for the year 1889, has just been published. It discloses some very remarkable facts—among them that the expansion and development of manufacturing industry in the West and South, particularly in those lines that are nearest to the raw materials, are already very great, and are increasing with a rapidity that promises to make very soon great changes in the industrial and trade conditions of the country. Western centers, as Chicago and St. Louis, are gradually working into the coal trade, on the basis of sorting and grading, through which alone manufacturers can get a uniform supply; and in cotton manufacture the supply of yarns, warp, twist, etc., now comes largely from the South, while ducks, drills, sheetings and the commoner sorts of cotton goods in general are beginning to appear in large quantities from the same quarter.

Only a few years ago iron and steel were not produced in considerable quantities in the United States, except in Pennsylvania. Illinois now affords more than one-fourth of all the iron and steel produced in America, and Alabama and Tennessee are rapidly developing the same great industry. In and around Chicago more iron and steel are now produced than in and around Pittsburgh.

Facts of this class are those which accentuate the demand of the East for free raw materials. The tariff, long unfriendly to the West and South, is turning, under new conditions, to their advantage and profit. With free raw materials, largely from foreign countries, the East believes it would be able to put a check upon the development of manufacturing industry in the West and South, and to regain the markets that local industry in these parts of the country has gradually been finding means to supply.

If the South would consider this subject in the light of its own interest it would stand closely with the West. But the South is not disposed even yet to give much consideration to anything in politics except to such as relate to its old "nigger question," which it has kept at the front during more than fifty years. On the industrial question as now presented the South would be the natural ally of the West, not of the East, but its politicians, by whom it has always been blindly led, hold it, as heretofore, in an unnatural position.

SILVER OR LEGAL TENDER NOTES.

Washington C. Ford, in the Political Science Quarterly, explains why free silver is not preferable to legal tender notes. An excessive coinage of silver is as impolitic as an excessive issue of paper, especially when the coin pretends to be what it is not—of full value. A silver coin claiming to be of the value of one dollar, but in reality worth only seventy-two cents, is as bad as a piece of paper claiming to be worth 100 cents, but in reality passing at a discount or depreciation of 28 per cent. At present the greenback is preferable to the silver dollar. It is a promise to pay based upon the credit of the government, and no longer what it was originally in 1862, a forced loan, not redeemable at the wish of the holder.

The credit of our government is so high at present that there is no doubt of its ability to float a much larger quantity of credit paper than is now outstanding. Our legal tenders are gilt-edged paper, due the holder from a debtor of unquestioned standing, and may at any time be presented at the treasury to be exchanged for coin should such an exchange be desired. The legal tender notes are a loan from the people to the government without interest, and the people are not likely to consent to the retirement of this form of paper to favor the "silver" men by creating a wider field for their issues. The judgment in favor of the greenback has been strengthened by the steady maintenance of the value of the greenback since the exemption of specie payments in 1879, and by affirmation of the constitutionality of the greenback by the last decisions of the supreme court. The maximum issue of the greenback is limited by the act of 1864 to $400,000,000, and under this limitation there is no danger of depreciation through inflation consequent upon such vast issues of paper money as characterized the revolutionary war epoch, the wildcat banking period, the assignat currency period in France, and the subsequent financial history of Austria. During our civil war the depreciation was more severe than occurred in England during the Napoleonic wars, and imposed a fearful tax on the productive resources of the country; but this excessive depreciation of legal tender paper is in no danger of being repeated, save in a situation of equally trying warlike emergency. If is true that congress has the power to issue greenbacks and our highest court has decided such issues to be constitutional, but "greenbackism," in the sense of illimitable issues of paper money, has had no standing in congress since 1877, and is not likely to have until history repeats itself in shape of another great foreign or domestic war.

The legal tender greenback rests upon the high credit of the government and also upon a fund of $100,000,000 in gold. The basis of the national bank note is above question, as it rests upon the credit of the government; but the silver dollar and the certificate issued upon it can grow indefinitely but cannot contract. The national bank circulation through the rapid payment of the public debt, the high premium on long bonds and the low returns on investments steadily diminishes, while the silver dollar increases in quantity but diminishes in value each year. In 1878, when the coinage was first begun, its bullion value was eighty-nine cents, and it should have contained 416.66 grains of pure silver (instead of $71.25) to have made it full value. In 1887 its bullion value was seventy-five and eight-tenths cents, the fall being nearly continuous each year, broken only by some temporary and abnormal demands for silver from the East. To be of full bullion value the coin should be increased in weight, so as to contain 459.78 grains of pure silver. To retire legal tenders and substitute for them silver dollars or silver certificates means the substitution of an over-valued coin, worth in the markets of the world only about three-fourths of its nominal value, for paper money of full value. The displacement of gold by silver must occur as soon as the quantity of silver becomes excessive, and we have only escaped this situation thus far by the extraordinary capacity of this country to draw gold from Europe, a fortunate state of things that is likely to disappear at any moment.

A ONE-SIDED ARGUMENT.

The New York Sun, the sole present object of whose being is to elect David B. Hill president of the United States, prints an elaborate forecast of the results of the next census and their effect upon the electoral college. The object of the article is to prove that New York will remain the pivotal state in the next presidential election as in the last, and that no candidate can be successful without its vote. The Sun's article is intended to convey an object lesson to the democratic party. Once having gained reception for the idea that the vote of New York is necessary to the election of a president, the Sun will serve notice to the democratic party that Hill carried New York in 1888 by nearly 18,000 majority, while Cleveland was defeated by over 12,000—a difference of 30,000 votes in favor of its candidate at the last test of popularity. The Sun believes, using preliminary estimates of the census bureau, that the population of the United States will reach about 65,000,000 this year. It assumes that the basis of representation will be increased to 175,000, enlarging the electoral college to about 450. The college numbered 401 in 1888, to which the new Northwestern states add thirteen. The Sun distributes the gain in this way: Alabama 2, Arkansas 2, California 1, Colorado 1, Georgia 2, Indiana 1, Iowa 1, Kansas 2, Kentucky 1, Louisiana 1, Maryland 1, Minnesota 3, Mississippi 1 Missouri 4, Nebraska 3, New Jersey 1, New York 1, North Carolina 2, Ohio 2, Pennsylvania 1, Texas 2 and Wisconsin 1. The four new states, the Sun believes, will have 14 electoral votes, distributed as follows: South Dakota 4, Washington 4, Montana 3 and North Dakota 3. The only loss foreseen is one in Maine.

We don't believe these figures are to be relied upon. They credit the South with too much increase, except in the case of Texas, which is probably under-rated, and the Northwest with too little. It is unlikely that North Carolina will gain two members of congress or Missouri four. Oregon is sure to gain one, California will probably gain more than one, and Iowa and Wisconsin more than they are credited with. But, taking the figures as they stand, they do not justify the Sun's conclusion that no president can be elected without the vote of New York. It is very true that no democratic president can. So far, the Sun's argument is good. But it breaks down when tested from the Republican side. These figures give a net gain of 18 in the South, increasing its strength in the electoral college from 153 to 171. Add New Jersey, the only sure democratic state in the North, and the certain democratic strength is 180. Add thirty-seven votes from New York and the total is 217, or nine less than a majority of 450. The Sun figures give the republicans a net gain of 14 in the college. The republican vote of 1888, leaving out New York and Indiana, was 182. Add the 14 gain and 11 from the Dakotas and Washington and the total is 207. This leaves out of account besides New York, Indiana, Connecticut and Montana, which are credited in 1892 with sixteen, seven and three votes respectively. Indiana and Montana, added to the 207 sure votes, would make a majority of the electoral college; Indiana and Connecticut more than a majority. The republicans have good reason to expect to carry all these states. Indiana is always fighting ground. Mugwump Connecticut will be surely republican with any democratic candidate but Cleveland, and Montana will be educated up to the point of republicanism before 1892. The Sun's argument will do for the democratic but it does not apply to the republican party. It may be an argument for the nomination of Hill, but it does not prove that he can be elected, even if he carries New York.

WILD STATISTICS.

According to a late dispatch from Washington Mr. Henry W. Elliott has been giving his opinions on the fur seal question. That Mr. Elliott is an authority on seal-life in general, nobody will deny who has read his reports on the seal rookeries made in his former capacity of special agent of the treasury department, but his last visit to the islands occurred in 1874, and since that time he has been making the most of the knowledge there acquired. The dispatch referred to describes him as the man "who made the last census of Alaska"—the truth is that upon his own application he was allowed to furnish a monograph on the fur seal as an appendix to the publication of the tenth United States census, but the census of Alaska in 1880 was not taken by Mr. Elliott, but by Mr. I. Petroff. At present Mr. Elliott declares that there are not more than 5,000,000 fur seals left, of which only 3,000,000 are of the proper age for breeding. The only way of calculating the number of seals on the islands thus far has been to count the animals on a certain measured fraction of superficial area and then to make an approximate measurement of the whole space occupied by the seals as they are lying stretched upon the rocks and grassy hammocks, or shuffle about in their clumsy way. This mode of procedure naturally precludes any degree of exactness, especially since the number of seals absent from the "rookeries" at all times in pursuit of food remains an unknown quantity in the calculation. What value there can be in such figures it is difficult to understand. Constant residents upon the island declare their inability to make any estimate of the number of seals—how can Mr. Elliott be able to do so from his little den in the Smithsonian Institute after an absence of sixteen years from the sealing grounds.

The seals in "hauling up" a shore keep pretty close together—the first-comers locate next to the beach and the subsequent arrivals are obliged to proceed further inland, and thus it is possible by observing the "inland boundary" of the living mass in various seasons, to make an estimate as to a general increase or decrease.

Up to four or five years ago, before the sealing schooners began to invade Behring sea a steady increase was noted in this way, but since that time the rookeries are said to cover less space every year, from which circumstance the ultimate fate of the species can be easily predicted if no protection is granted against the hunters who pursue them in the water. But for a man to go before a committee of congress and to tell them just how many seals there are in the sea is simply absurd and a waste of the committee's time.

The annual story of destitution and suffering comes from the coast of Labrador. The wretched fishing folk, we are told, are perishing for lack of the commonest necessities of life. While it is altogether probable that, at the best seasons, life in the fisherman's homes on the bleak coast of Labrador is devoid of what civilized people term comforts, it is not likely that there is any unusual destitution among them. They are a peculiar people, as thoroughly devoted to the bleak surroundings of their desolate homes as are the Icelanders. So sincere is their loyalty to poverty that they refuse government offers to take them, free of charge, to a less rigorous climate, but dwell with eternal winter and its attendant hardships well content. The problem of helping such people is a constantly recurring one, its only redeeming feature being that a little help goes a great way with them.

This year the age retirements in the army will be eleven in number, and will include no fewer than four chiefs of staff corps and departments, each having the rank of brigadier general, and two colonels, commanding regiments. The four heads of bureau to be retired are Paymaster-General William B. Rochester, February 15; Quartermaster-General Samuel B. Holabird, June 16; Commissary-General Robert Macfeely, July 1; Surgeon-General John Moore, August 16. If President Harrison follows the seniority rule in appointments, observed in Adjutant-General Kelton's case, Colonel Rodney Smith, who was stationed at Portland for several years, would be made paymaster-general, in place of General Rochester; Colonel Charles H. Tompkins, quartermaster general, in place of General Holabird; Colonel Beekman Du Barry, commissary general, in place of General Macfeely; Colonel Jedediah H. Baxter, surgeon general, in place of General John Moore. Colonel Smith's appointment will be contested by Lieutenant-Colonel Charles M. Terrell and Major Asa B. Carey. The two line colonels who are to retire this year are Colonel Benjamin H. Grierson, of the Tenth cavalry, who will be 64 on the 8th of July, and Colonel Alfred L. Hough, of the Ninth infantry, who will reach that age on the 23d of April. Grierson has been colonel of the Tenth cavalry for more than twenty-three years. Colonel William D. Whipple, assistant adjutant general, who served on the staff of General Sherman during the war, will be retired in August next. Rear-Admiral James E. Jouett, of the navy, will be retired next month.

The inter-state commerce commission has presented a report on railroad casualties in the United States during 1889, from which it appears that the number of passengers killed was 315, and the number injured was 2,138. The proportion of killed was one passenger to every million and a quarter, and one injured to every 200,000. This is not an alarming exhibit; but when we come to the number of employes of the railroads killed or maimed, the record is frightful. It equals the loss of either army at the battle of Gettysburg. Of employes one in every 128 was killed, one in every 12.4 was injured. The total figures are 2,070 killed and 20,148 injured. Besides these, no less than 2,897 other persons are reported killed during the year, mostly at crossings. This destruction of life would appal the country, if it were the result of any single disaster; but it is distributed throughout the year and little is thought of it. Yet when we get the figures together and find that 5,000 persons were killed by our railroads, and 30,000 injured within a single year, the result may be called startling.

Secretary Windom's silver bullion bill has been so fully discussed in anticipation of its introduction as to leave little to say about the complete text now that it is presented, especially as the full text contains no new features. The prohibition of the purchase of foreign coin or bullion was not in the original plan of the secretary, but was adopted some time ago, in order to make the measure more acceptable to certain critics. The discretionary provisions of the bill are carefully drawn, and limit the powers of the secretary more than was originally proposed. He is distinctly forbidden to buy silver bullion when the value of the silver in a standard dollar in open market is more than one dollar. He is only permitted to suspend purchase when he is satisfied that an artificial and fictitious price has been created for silver by a ring or combination. The bill will be introduced in both houses at an early day.

It is now definitely stated by Mr. William Reid that the Astoria & South Coast railroad will be completed from Astoria to a connection with the Southern Pacific at or near Hillsboro by the end of the year 1891. This is an important announcement, and THE OREGONIAN is extremely glad to chronicle it. This road will be one more important factor in the development of the country, and will be of special benefit to Astoria and to the district lying between Astoria and the valley of the Willamette. There is strong probability also that the Union Pacific will have a road direct from Portland to Astoria at least as soon as the road now announced shall make its connection. Astoria is destined to rapid growth, and very probably during the coming summer will ride the crest of a big "boom."

It is said that nearly half a century ago a disease similar to that which is at present prevalent raged in Atlantic cities, and the fact is recalled that Hugh S. Legare, of South Carolina, a member of Tyler's cabinet, died of it after a visit to Boston, the circumstances being almost identical with the late visit of Henry W. Grady to that city and his subsequent death. This was in 1843 and the disease was then called the "Tyler grippe" and it has not been known since, until the present season. Mr. Legare was one of the most scholarly representative men of the South, and, like Mr. Grady, was a man of remarkable oratorical power, and this, together with the circumstances and manner of his death, is recalled in connection with Mr. Grady's death, as a remarkable coincidence.

The library of the late S. L. M. Barlow, of New York, one of the finest private collections in this country, will be sold at auction in that city next month. It includes costly and curious literary treasures which its late owner had gathered from all over the world, the work of a lifetime of research. Orders for the catalogue have been received from the great libraries of Europe and their representatives will no doubt be present at the sale in the hope of carrying such of these literary treasures as may be procured back across the water.

The manufacture of rubber goods has grown within a few years to enormous proportions in this country. Comparative figures show that the consumption of the manufactured article is likely to exceed the production of the natural product. Rubber is a Brazilian product, shipped mainly from Para, and though 950 tons were received in New York during December the supply was so much less than for a like month within the past five years that a rubber famine was feared.

The largest brewery in the world is situate in St. Louis. Its buildings and yards occupy forty five blocks. It employs 2000 workmen, has a capital of $5,000,000, and during the year 1889 produced over 25,000,000 gallons of beer.

The Manitoba Extension.

Railway Age.

The surveyors for the Manitoba Pacific extension report a practicable route by the Marias pass, the summit of which, 5700 feet high, they say can be reached by a grade of less than 106 feet to the mile. The pass is an open one from one to six miles wide, requiring little solid rock work, and they estimate the cost of the road through it at not exceeding $16,000 per mile. It is claimed that his route to the coast will be at least 100 miles shorter than any other from Montana. It seems evident that another transcontinental line is to be pushed over the Rocky mountains during the next year or two.

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

The Prince of Wales will probably go to Berlin, accompanied by Prince George for the fete in celebration of Emperor William's birthday on January 27.

It is understood that the Prince and Princess Hatzfeldt will live in New York city, in the great house which Mr. C. P. Huntington is to build on Fifth avenue.

Queen Victoria has made a baronet of Sir Albert Sasson, who recently entertained the shah of Persia magnificently in London. His enemies say that he should be Baron Sasson.

The Duchess d'Uzes is training an original Christy minstrel corps of her own for public appearance in Paris. The duchess is a patron of horse races and other outdoor sports.

Henry H. Kitson, whose model for a statue of Farragut has been accepted by Boston, has received gold medals for his works from the queen of Roumania and several art associations, and from the king of Roumania the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Mrs. Sallie Joy White, of the Boston Herald, claims the distinction of being the first woman journalist to have a position upon a Boston newspaper. Mrs. White began her journalistic career in 1869, and has been steadily at work ever since, stopping only long enough to get married.

General William Tecumseh Sherman spends much of his time turning the leaves of his scrap-books of maps. Many of them were pencil sketches which were made by officers under his command in battle days, and all are marked with crosses and lined with red ink, and have marginal comments.

Meissonier, the French painter, is 79 years old, and wears the head of a patriarch. He is well off, but not wealthy. His house in Paris was built by him, and is fitted up in artistic style and filled with beautiful things. M. Meissonier has written his memoirs, which will not be published until after his death.

Anna Teresa Berger, the leading woman cornetist of the world, is now performing in London. At her lodgings she has a small room fitted up with padded walls and ceiling and draped doors, and there she practices night and day on the gold and silver cornets that have been presented to her by her admirers.

H. C. Seppings Wright, the special artist of the London Illustrated News, has come to this country to make a feature of the portrayal of American life. Mr. Wright is a man of athletic build and in the prime of life. His face is decorated with a brown, curling beard, and he has a pleasant manner and agreeable voice.

Persons in Portland.

L. O. Morton and wife, of New York, registered at the St. Charles yesterday.

William M. Hoag, of Corvallis, president of the projected Yaquina bay railway, is staying at the Holton.

W. H. Woodruff and wife, of Tacoma, are at the Esmond, having been trying for two days to get East over the Union Pacific.

Hon. Eugene Canfield, the noted railroad builder and capitalist of Seattle, is at the Esmond on his way to California. Mr. Canfield is in poor health, being threatened with pneumonia.

Dr. A. Sharples, one of the leading physicians and surgeons of Eugene, was in Portland on business the last of the week. Many friends were glad to look upon the doctor's genial face and receive a hearty clasp of his hand.

Captain W. P. Gray, the Pasco factotum, came down from Pasco yesterday in response to a telegraphic summons from General Joseph C. Wilson, of Denver, who is lying ill at the Esmond. The general is threatened with dropsy.

Hon. Wm. M. Hoag, general manager of the Oregon Pacific, is in the city. He expected to go East yesterday but found the Northern Pacific, the last route to succumb to the snow blockade, closed against him. He will take his departure by that road which sends out the first through train.

Brigadier-General J. M. Siglin is at the St. Charles. He expects to conduct a review of the First regiment, O. N. G., Wednesday evening next at the armory. Governor Pennoyer is also expected to be present, and if so the review will be conducted by him, accompanied by General Siglin. In the event of the governor's absence the general will conduct the review.

Mr. W. C. Morrow, of San Francisco, arrived in the city this morning from Tacoma. Speaking of his recent visit there an exchange says: "Mr. Morrow is one of the best known newspaper and magazine writers of the Golden State. He is at present in the office of T. H. Goodman, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, and is employed as the descriptive and pamphlet writer of the company, taking the place of Major Ben Truman, who has been incapacitated through ill health.

Mr. W. A. Williams, of Castle Rock, Wash., was at the Esmond yesterday. He has been successful in his mission here, which was the securing of a competent manager for the new hotel at Castle Rock. Mr. Williams speaks in glowing terms of his town, and says it is making rapid strides forward. Two new railroads are now surveyed into it, and the shingle industry is booming. Castle Rock is the head of navigation for the Cowlitz most of the year, and has good prospects of being the next boom town.

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

FORT TOWNSEND FOR A PUBLIC PARK.

Port Townsend Leader: Congress should donate to this city the grounds at Fort Townsend for a public park. In the light of precedent, we are not asking too much of the national government in seeking to secure those beautiful grounds for a city resort. The day is not distant when they will become necessary to our comfort and will add greatly to the desirability of this city as a place of residence. Similar grants have been made to Tacoma and other cities by congress, and Port Townsend now asks that her interests be as magnanimously considered.

PIERCE COUNTY RECOGNIZED AT LAST.

Tacoma Globe: So it seems that Captain Brown is to be appointed United States marshal. Thus Pierce county, the wealthiest and most populous in the state, paying the largest amount of taxes and containing the leading city of the commonwealth, is "recognized" at last. While we were anxious to see Captain Brown appointed, it looks like a pity to take the office away from Seattle, but then Seattle will probably get the federal judge and still has chances for the United States attorney.

NO WORK, NO PAY.

Great Falls, (Mont.) Leader: That was a very excellent measure which Goodman introduced at Helena some days ago to reduce the salary of recreant members. When the state deputes men to represent it and transact its business, it certainly is businesslike to dock their remuneration if they fail to perform their duty. It would bring members to terms much quicker than all the authority of house and sergeant-at-arms combined. It is a pity so good a resolution was lost.

FARMERS JUBILANT. STOCKMEN DESPONDENT.

Cheney Enterprise: The crop outlook was never better than at present. The fall rains wet the ground fully a foot deep. Snow fell in December when the land was not frozen, and deep snows having since fallen, when soaked into the ground will give the growing grass and grain a send off that has not happened for years. Farmers are jubilant over the prospects, while stockmen are down in the mouth. "It is an ill wind that blows no good to any one."

NEWSPAPER ON TRIAL.

Spokane Falls Review: Was ever such a legal farce enacted before as that which has recently startled and dazed the people of Spokane Falls? A man is shot to death in the public streets. He is promptly arraigned before the coroner, convicted and condemned, and his slayer discharged with a benediction. The preliminary examination follows, and the editor of a morning paper is forthwith placed on trial. These are the facts in a nutshell.

WILL NOT MISS CHEHALIS.

Chehalis Bee: The location of Chehalis and Centralia is such that a line built from Portland to Puget sound and touching either town would not fail to touch the other. Chehalis business men are just as wide awake to the importance of the road as Centralia people can be, and our neighbors can mark it down as certain that when the Union Pacific people build in the Chehalis valley they will not miss Chehalis.

THE WARNING SHOULD BE HEEDED.

Tacoma Ledger: Scandals are brewing in this legislature which the intelligence and virtue of the state will not tolerate. It is not strange that the speaker of the house should have caught the sound of popular sentiment and assured the legislature that the best course for it to pursue is to pass the few laws which are indispensably necessary as quickly as possible and adjourn. This warning can not be too quickly heeded for the good name of the state. The legislature has already voted away more money than the taxpayers can afford in benefactions of various sorts to an army of unnecessary clerks and in gratuities to the lieutenant-governor.

TIME FOR THE LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN.

Snohomish Sun: It is a burning shame and a most pitiable state of affairs when twenty-five or thirty members of such an august body (the legislature) must form themselves into a sort of vigilance committee to prevent jobbery and corruption, and the sooner the legislature adjourns and the members return to private life the better it will be for people whose interests they were sent there to represent and further.

THE NEW ROAD LAW.

Snohomish Eye: The new road law now under consideration in the legislature seeks to remedy some of the defects of the old law, and one of its most commendable features, it seems to the Eye, is the provision for having all the road work done by contract awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, and to be performed under the direction of a competent general road supervisor, who is to be paid an adequate salary.

CONSTITUTIONALLY OPPOSED TO WORK.

Snohomish Eye: The Snohomish economist, "Doc" Eddy, on Friday last temporarily paralyzed the house with a motion to hold two daily sessions. It is almost needless to say that the motion was knocked out with a "dull thud," a large majority of the house seeming to be constitutionally opposed to doing much practical work.

CAN'T BE FUNNY.

Salem Statesman: And now comes W. F. Benjamin, of Douglas county, and attempts to be facetious in nominating himself for state printer, or governor, because he opposed the Bull Run water bill in his paper, the Roseburg Plaindealer. If there is anything in the world Benjamin can't be it is funny.

AN ARMY OF LABORERS.

"ON JORDAN'S STORMY BANKS."

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage Baptizes an American in the Biblical Stream.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—[Special Telegram.]—Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, of Brooklyn, is here, having just returned from the Holy Land.

"I am in Paris for the first time since 1885, but never was I here before during winter," said the distinguished divine. "Paris is charming, and I regret that I must sail so soon on the Aurania, on the 25th, to resume my duties. I have returned from the most enjoyable trip of my life. I have been all over the Holy Land and into parts of Italy; Rome, for instance, which I had not seen before, although I have been abroad many times. Every place in Palestine has had great interest for me. Just before we reached Bethlehem and Jerusalem I could not sleep. I was as excited as a boy, for it was the realization of my life's dream.

"At Jericho I met an American who asked me to baptize him in the river Jordan. So, one fine Sunday morning, when the sun shone gloriously bright, we assembled together on the banks of that river. I was clad in the white robes of an Arab sheikh. A small crowd of interested people were about me, some of whom were Americans, singing together 'On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand,' which my daughter had copied from a hymn book and distributed. After this the rite of immersion was performed and we disbanded. My trip was replete with biblical interest. I feel doubly repaid for it. Every day the Bible seemed to speak more forcibly, for I could trace all the important places of Bible history on every journey I made."

The Mortgage Tax.

Tacoma Ledger.

The Northwest Magazine says that one reason why Seattle, Spokane Falls and Ellensburgh were able to secure an abundance of Eastern money on favorable terms for the restoration of their fire losses, was that "there is no double tax on mortgaged property in Washington; that is to say, mortgages are not taxed, as they are in Minnesota and the two Dakotas. The man who is obliged to borrow money is not compelled, after paying the tax on his property, to pay a tax on his debt in the form of an added rate of interest put on by the mortgage-holder. There never was legislation more stupid than the mortgage tax. It comes always out of the debter—never out of the holder of the mortgage, for the latter always compensates himself by a higher rate of interest. Yet the farmers, who are the worst hurt by this tax of any class, are the very men who vote for it in the legislature." We have frequently shown that it has been a great advantage to Washington that our laws have been favorable to the investment and employment of money. THE OREGONIAN has repeatedly said that the more rapid progress of this state, as compared with Oregon, is due to our wiser tax laws. It seems incredible that any intelligent citizens should be willing to forfeit these advantages at this time.

Where the Difference Is.

New York World (Dem).

The great men who are protesting against a ballot system which will demonstrate that some people have not learned to read assume that the bulk of illiteracy is in the democratic party. Does the democratic party, Mr. Senator Gorman, accept this view of the case? Is it true that in Maryland the republican negroes are better educated than the poor white democrats?

New Hampshire's Prohibition Law.

Boston Journal.

Laws which are not only not enforced, but are habitually and notoriously violated, encourage contempt for all law on the part of the unthinking portion of the community. If the laws are such as are really not supported by popular opinion, the remedy is easy, but so long as they stand the public good demands their energetic and impartial enforcement.

Mr. Higgins Says Hill Won't Do.

Washington Post.

It is high time for Governor Hill to stop and indulge in a little serious reflection. The Hon. Eugene Higgins has been interviewed and says he does not think New York's governor will do for 1892, as he is making too much of an offensive partisan of himself. Mr. Higgins is of the opinion that the next democratic nominee will come from the West.

Shipbuilding Not Quite Extinct.

Boston Journal.

The fact that the Maine shipbuilders have had the busiest and most prosperous season in 1889 for many years is another forcible reminder that better days are promised for our merchant navy, and that we had better go to work to encourage its revival, instead of idly mourning its decadence.

How It Would Work.

The practical working of Governor Hill's proposed combination of official and unofficial ballots would be that a voter who had been bought would be enabled to deliver his official ballot to the purchaser, after he had voted, as a certificate that the goods had been delivered.

THE CRY OF BOODLE.

Olympia Legislature Will Investigate It To-Day.

CLARK APOLOGIZES TO REPORTERS

Resume of Business Accomplished During the Past Week.

CHAPLAIN LANDEN IN A STREET CAR

Opposition to Powers's Medical Bill—Objections of Express Companies to the Proposed Regulations Imposed Upon Them.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 19.—Boodle is the great word here nowadays. Its frequent use in the recent discussions of the house and in connection with the proposed anti-boodle society has made it a byword, and it is in everybody's mouth. Even the newsboys use it. At legislative headquarters hilarity is aroused by inquiring for boodle and demanding the men with the sacks and "barrels" to come forth. When men take a drink, military style instead of saluting with the word "How," they say "boodle."

There is no reason why any one should cry "boodle." There is nothing to indicate that any member has been bribed or his vote influenced in any way by money. The house itself is to blame for the odium under which it is now groaning. If the members would cease their insane vaporings, as Representative Geoghegan, who is a level-headed man, suggested, the reporters would confine themselves to the legitimate business of the house and there would be no such nonsense.

There will be a row over the anti-boodle society Monday. The committee of members, who have been quietly looking into the matter, have sifted it to the bottom, and the young man who overheard Moultray reading off the blacklisted to Cook has agreed to tell all he knows.

Representative Clark of Spokane, has been rather unjustly censured for offering a resolution the other day calling the authors of the articles on the anti-boodle society to account. Clark, like a great many other members, was at first inclined to believe that the story was made of whole cloth and had no foundation in fact. To be sure he was justified in taking this view, for there was nothing definite to indicate that a movement to organize an anti-boodle society was on foot. Since then Mr. Clark has learned to his satisfaction that there was ground for the story, and the other night he did the handsome thing by apologizing to the reporters whom he thought took offense at his resolution.

During the week the following bills were passed:

BY THE SENATE.

By Representative Stevenson—To regulate voluntary sending of newspapers.

By Senator Farris—To authorize fees for attorneys in certain cases.

By Representative Megler—To authorize the appointment of commissioners of deeds.

By Representative Herren—To relieve auditor of Lewis county.

By house committee on harbors and navigable waters—Giving the consent of the legislature to the reservation by the United States of lands needed for government purposes.

By Senator Austin—Requiring railroads to be fenced.

By Senator Wilson—Prescribing the duties of the lieutenant governor.

BY THE HOUSE.

By Representative Power—To regulate practice of medicine and surgery.

By Representative Gandy—Appropriating $100,000 to complete the Medical Lake asylum.

By Representative Pickrell—Requiring railroad companies to make connections.

By house agricultural committee—To establish state agricultural college.

A tall, clerical looking man entered a street car in which four reporters were riding to the state house the other day. One of the young men had been playing "keno" the night before and produced three or four dollars which he said he had won. The clerical looking man listened and smiled and everybody else in the car was amused, too. Then the conversation turned to the long, windy sessions of the house and senate.

"What in hell is the matter with you fellows down in the house?" said the young keno player. "You seem to be getting worse. Does that damn chaplain pray too long?" Everybody, including the clerical looking man, laughed heartily at the young man's expense.

"If you will come to the house some day I will pray for you, and I guarantee that I will not keep you long."

Then some one introduced the reporter to Chaplain Landen of the house, and everybody had another laugh.

Representative Herren has been indorsed by nearly every member of the legislature for the position of assistant United States district attorney. Mr. Herren is a bright young man of 31, and is one of the most forcible speakers in the house. Early in the session he was mentioned for district attorney, but he refused to be a candidate for the place.

If Dr. Power's medical bill passes the senate a strong effort will be made by the homœopaths and some Seattle newspapers to induce Governor Ferry to veto it. These newspapers object to the bill because the house refused to accept Grant's amendment that advertising shall not be considered unprofessional conduct. Some infer from this that a physician could do no advertising in the event of the bill becoming a law. This is ridiculous. No one thinks for a minute that any medical association or anything could prevent a doctor publishing a card like this:

DR. JOHN BROWN,
HOMŒPATH,
Room 21, Union Block,
Seattle, Wash.
Office hours: 9 A. M. to 12 M. 2 P. M to 5 P. M.

An advertisement of this kind is all the reputable physician needs. It is only necessary for him to advertise where he can be found, not what he can do. The fellows who advertise that they can cure anything from a toothache to consumption are the ones the bill aims to regulate.

Representative Grant's bill requiring express companies to deliver letters and parcels, in towns of 1000 inhabitants, within one business day after their receipt, if the consignee lives within two miles of the express office, will meet with considerable opposition in the senate, whose commerce committee now has charge of it. The express companies claim that it is radical legislation; that it handicaps them; in short, they offer substantially the same objection to it that was made to the Kinnear anti-trust bill. Fault is found with the penalty, which is very heavy, being a fine of from $50 to $500 for failure or neglect of an agent to deliver a package. The companies want the bill so amended that the penalty shall not exceed $25 and shall be taxed to the agent who fails to deliver. They also want another amendment giving them one business day either to deliver packages or send notice to the consignee that there is a package at the office for him.

The companies claim also that, aside from possibly three large cities in Washington—Spokane Falls, Seattle and Tacoma—there is not a town in the state whose business or

ONLY FIFTEEN MILES.

That is all the "Blanket Amendment" Comprises.

A LIST OF STREETS COVERED

Astoria to Have Her Railroad Completed by December 31, 1891.

DISUNITED UNITED BRETHREN

New Features in Taxation—Good Detective Work—Taught a Bitter Lesson—Work on the Cable Road.

The articles published in these columns within the past few days in regard to the "blanket" street railway ordinance, have attracted considerable attention. When the ordinance was introduced in the council it was generally looked upon as a sort of a joke, and no one supposed it would ever receive any serious attention. The applications for franchises by persons who really intended to build railways and some of whom offered to expend $20,000 in a bridge, for the benefit of the city, have been allowed to sleep peacefully for months in the hands of committees, and when the council ordered that all these applications be laid before a "committee of nine" next Wednesday night, no one probably except those immediately interested had any idea that the blanket ordinance would come to the surface with the others.

The fact that an amendment was surreptitiously attached to this ordinance gave the first intimation that it was to be brought before the committee of nine, and the assertion was made that enough votes had been secured to pass it. The fact that Messrs. Markle, DeLashmutt and others had sold a franchise granted them on Second street for a sum variously estimated from $10,000 to $40,000, aroused attention to the fact that street railway franchises had become valuable, and it was evident that if any one could put up a job to secure a franchise to all the principal streets in the city, there would be "millions in it."

Councilman Gerdes, when told that this blanket ordinance was a big thing, and would probably effectually cover from sight all who would vote for its passage, laughingly replied, "Can't we fellows have a little as well as for DeLashmutt, Woodward and Scoggin to have it all?" The feeling of the others, that they might as well have a share of this "pudding," is doubtless natural, but the public will not look upon it as commendable.

WHAT THE ORDINANCE COVERS.

The following list of the streets asked for and the value of the franchise at par per mile will give an idea of what a plum Messrs. E. J. Jeffery, Joseph Simon, A. L. Frazer, C. P. Church, Henry Weinhard, O. P. S. Plummer and Edward A. Post ask for. It may be stated that these gentlemen have not yet incorporated themselves as a street railway company, nor have they yet opened an office for retailing street railway franchises:

From this it will be seen that about fifteen miles of streets has been asked for. At the present time street railway franchises are worth about $10,000 per mile, figuring on the basis of annual returns. And that sum, many say, was realized per mile by the Traction Road Company when they sold their franchise on Second street to the Metropolitan Railway Company last summer.

The public will watch with interest the action of the council in regard to this matter, and it will be strange if after holding back franchises asked for in good faith by parties anxious and willing to build roads, the council should grant this blanket franchise to parties who make no pretence of making any legitimate use of it.

ASTORIA TO HAVE A RAILROAD.

Arrangements Completed and Funds Provided for the Completion of the Road by December 31, 1891.

On his return from Astoria, Mr. William Reid, president of the Astoria & South Coast railway, was waited upon by an OREGONIAN reporter to obtain details of the action of the board of directors of the road at their recent meeting. He stated that a full board of directors, nine in number, were present at the meeting, and all worked earnestly and harmoniously together to determine the best course to be pursued in the interests of their city, and several propositions to that end were considered.

A majority of the stockholders had intimated to the directors their willingness to cancel their shares of stock in exchange for the actual completion of the road to the Willamette valley, stating that they had subscribed their shares to be given as a bonus for that purpose, and especially to secure the building of the bridge across Young's bay, to connect Astoria with the mainland, without which these stockholders felt that the railway interests of Astoria were insecure should a competing city be established by the railroad-owners on the west side of Young's bay.

In deference to their wishes the Astoria directors solicited a proposition which would carry out the stockholders' desires, rather than to borrow money for the present from outside sources.

Accordingly, the directors unanimously passed a resolution agreeing to convey by deed to any person or corporation named by William Reid, all the company's assets of whatever character or description, including its terminal lands and rights at or near Astoria, in consideration of which Mr. Reid and others became personally obligated to give bonds in the sum of $100,000 to immediately transfer certain real estate of the selling value of $100,000, by deed to the various stockholders or to a trustee to be named by them in security for such bonds, which sum of $100,000 and real estate security are to become the property of the Astoria stockholders and divided among them pro rata, should Mr. Reid and his associates fail to carry out any one of the following conditions:

First—To build the road from Warrenton and lay track to Mrs. Bird's ocean house on or before the 1st of May next.

Second—To build the road and lay track from the center of Young's Bay bridge to the Nekanican river near Grimes', before the 1st of July next.

Third—To build the trestle work and grade from the city of Astoria and to construct the easterly portion of the bridge from Smith's point to the centre of Young's Bay, before the 31st of October, 1890.

Fourth—To construct and complete the Young's Bay draw bridge and piers, and to connect the same with the westerly portion, now built, on or before the 31st of December, 1890.

Fifth—To construct, complete and have in operation the Astoria & South Coast railway as a standard gauge road; the greater portion of it to be of sixty pound steel rails, and have trains running from the city of Astoria to the Southern Pacific's line near Hillsboro, on or before the 31st of December, 1891.

Mr. Reid was obligated to give his whole time and attention to pushing the work of construction through to the Southern Pacific's line and to undertake the management of the Astoria & South Coast Railroad Co's. affairs.

After those conditions were accepted by the directors unanimously and written obligations given by the sureties it was concluded on the advice of the company's attorney to obtain the same ratified and confirmed by the stockholders, and for the latter to designate the trustee to hold the securities.

In the meantime the Astoria directors resolved that the work of construction should be proceeded with without delay, and accordingly they unanimously accepted the offer made by certain railroad contractors at Portland to grade, trestle and bridge the entire roadbed from the point where construction is now completed on Lewis and Clarke river to Hillsboro, and to finish the tunnel of 1500 feet and complete the roadbed ready for the rails, to Washington county. Finances were arranged for the payment of this grading work in sections of ten miles, and for payment of all construction debts now in arrears, and a resolution passed authorizing the finance committee to sell the mortgage bonds to certain bankers, to be designated by them.

Upon Mr. Reid's return to Portland, he, as agreed, tendered his resignation as manager of the Portland & Willamette Valley railroad, and will only hold that office until his successor is elected. He will still retain his position as vice president of the Portland & Willamette Valley road, to give necessary advice and guidance to the manager. Mr. Reid will consequently spend the most of his time in the construction of the Astoria road until 100 miles are completed through to the Southern Pacific West Side line, although he will retain his residence at Portland.

THE DISUNITED UNITED BRETHREN.

The Church Divided Into Two Factions, Each of Which Claims the Church Property.

The members of the United Brethren church who have long maintained a college at Philomath, Benton county, are having considerable trouble and litigation in regard to church matters and property in this and also other states. According to their original church laws and discipline a person belonging to a secret society could not become a member of this church. This provision has always been a source of trouble in the church as the members were divided in regard to the matter as well as upon some other questions of discipline and confession.

At the general conference of the church held in December 1889, the discipline was amended so as to admit members of secret societies into the church, and in some other minor matters. About fifteen of the 120 members of the conference objected to the change, and left the conference in a body and convened another conference, claiming that they were the only true representatives of the church.

This action resulted in a division of the churches of the United Brethren in every state in the Union and as a result of this division, lawsuits are pending in many states in regard to which of the two factions is entitled to the church property. In this state a suit is pending in Benton county in regard to the college property of the Brotherhood at Philomath. Each of the factions has instituted a suit to enjoin the other from using it, and as a consequence the property is in the hands of a receiver. The school has been suspended in the college buildings, but each faction has erected other buildings and are conducting two different schools, both of which is claimed to be "Philomath College." There are now two sets of bishops, presiding elders and ministers.

The case was tried last Thursday on a motion to dissolve the two injunctions, before Judge Bean, in chambers at Salem, and he now has the matter under advisement.

NEW FEATURE IN TAXES.

Can an Oregonian Man Who Loans Money in Washington Be Made to Pay Taxes in That State and This?

The decision in the two cases of Poppleton vs. Yamhill county and Jamieson vs. Yamhill county, tried in the supreme court a few days since, will be watched for with interest by many. The question involved is whether a person residing in Oregon and having money loaned in Washington on notes and mortgages which are in the hands of agents in that state and were never in Oregon can be taxed for said notes and mortgages in this state. The circuit court held that the money so loaned is taxable here, and the case was appealed to the supreme court. As the notes are taxable in Washington in the hands of agents there, if it is held that they are taxable here the result will be double taxation on such notes. As there are many thousands of dollars of Oregon money loaned in the state of Washington which will be affected by the decision in this case, it is a matter of importance to a great many in this state.

A GOOD DETECTIVE STORY.

How Mr. R. B. Bechamp Secured an Important Witness For a $4,000,000 Estate.

Among the snowbound travelers in the city is Mr. R. B. Bechamp, of Tipton, Indiana, whom a reporter met at the Esmond yesterday. Mr. Bechamp tells an interesting story concerning his visit to the coast.

He is counsel for the three heirs of a $4,000,000 estate in Miami county, Indiana, in a suit now pending before the circuit court there. The estate is defendant to an action for breach of contract involving $40,000. The contract in question was alleged to have been made with the father of the heirs since deceased, and his death removed the defense to the existence of any such contract.

There had been a partner to the dead man's business at one time, but he had gone away and all track had been lost of him. The interesting part of the story consists in tracing up this man, who was finally located at Ellensburg. Mr. Baechamp came out and saw him, and was well rewarded for his pains, for the Ellensburg partner makes a deposition denying in toto the existence of any such contract.

LEARNING A BITTER LESSON.

Young Buckley Returns and Talks Plaintively About His Mother.

Deputy Sheriff Mizner came down from Salem yesterday with the young man, John Buckley, who is to have a new trial on the charge of perjuring himself in the Brown stabbing case. Buckley says he was very well treated up at Salem, and that he hopes he can some time repay the kindness of the officers there. He expects to be called up in court this morning to have his trial set. He said to a reporter:

Don't allude to me as "Tough" Buckley. It does me a great injustice, I assure you. I have always worked hard and steady, as my employers will testify. People who don't know me would get a wrong idea about me from such an expression.

I feel bad about it on my mother's account. I hoped to be out before this, so that I might earn money to pay her back. She has had to mortgage her property to help me through this trouble. She is getting old, and it hurt me to see her reducing herself to want in this way. She has been a good mother to me, and I have been very sorry for my dissipated ways, though I have never wronged anybody, God knows. But I have had bad habits of drinking and boozing around. When I get out of this, I will never drink another drop.

Buckley is said to be one of those people who are all right when sober, but hard citizens when drinking. A man like that never ought to take a drink; and if he does so, his further actions are to a great degree responsible. Some of the saddest crimes that juries have to try are those perpetrated by men when drunk, who are the kindest and best of men when sober.

PROGRESS ON THE CABLE ROAD.

Power House Approaching Completion—Engines, Waiting Rooms, Etc.

The power house and car shed of the cable road company are rapidly approaching completion, and the ornamental front, which is now being painted, and the massive and symmetrical smokestack combine to make it rather a pretentious building. The huge battery of boilers is in place, and the city water mains are being connected with them.

The powerful engines still lack some of these parts, which are delayed by the blockade but which will be rushed through as speedily as possible. The huge fly wheels are on the ground ready to be put in place, and the heavy and complicated system of wheels and pullies, which are to put the cable in motion, are in place. The cable on two huge spools, containing about two and one-half miles and weighing twenty-three tons, is at hand ready to run through the conduit as soon as everything is in readiness. The pullies over which the cable is to be run are being put in place, which is a tedious job. The road bed will be completed in a day or two, and the cars, eight in number, are now being shipped from San Francisco.

In the front of the car house are spacious and convenient offices, waiting rooms, etc., which will be handsomely furnished. Should the delayed machinery arrive as soon as expected, the road will be running by the middle of February.

THOUGHT HE WAS SHOT.

A Whisky Bottle in the Pocket of a Prohibitionist Causes Him Much Trouble.

A young man, intent upon patching up an old hen coop from which several of his choicest fowls had mysteriously disappeared, entered one of the large hardware stores on Front street, several days ago, for the purpose of investing two bits in some nails. He had scarcely crossed the threshhold of the store when one of the men, engaged in carrying some heavy steel rods, dropped his load directly behind him.

The crash of the rods falling to the floor sounded so much like the sharp report of a pistol that the young man jumped to one side, as if to escape the bullet of a second discharge, should another follow. As he did so his private pocket in the leeward side of his pants came against a counter with such force that a well-filled whisky bottle, carefully concealed therein, was smashed. The contents, being freed, naturally ran down the leg of his trowsers, and as the bottle had absorbed considerable warmth from being carried so close to his person, it felt no doubt very much like the sanguinary fluid.

The young man imagined that he was struck by a bullet. "I am shot! I am shot!" he cried in accents wild. "Oh, yes, I am shot; I can feel the blood trickling down my leg," he continued.

The powerful and penetrating whisky fumes, however, were against him, and he soon realized his mistake. As he was a dyed-in-the-wool prohibitionist he grew furious when asked how the bottle came there. He insisted that he was the victim of a practical joke, and that the bottle was placed in his pocket by some villainous gin-mill keeper. The sally of laughter that greeted this explanation so grated upon his finer sensibilities that he rushed out in a rage. He never returned for the nails, and the inference is that his hen coop is still a standing invitation to those hungry for chicken giblets.

EVERYBODY GETTING TIRED OF IT.

The Snow Is Now Being Regarded as a "Chestnut."

Everybody is tiring of the beautiful snow and is ready to dispense with it. The light fall of the fleecy Saturday night made everything look very beautiful the next morning. It seemed as if the snow king had been trying to see how much snow he could pile on everything, and he had produced some startling effects. Every limb and twig on the trees and bushes around town carried a burden of snow many times its size, and every wire and projecting point and pinnacle was loaded in the same style.

It would seem as if about all the changes and variations possible in the line of snow had been exhibited and even the boys are getting tired of coasting, and the gentlemen who hire sleighs at a week's salary per hour, are getting broke and no one wants any more snow. "Oh for a southerly wind and a cloudy sky and a warm rain, and an end of slipping and sliding and coughing and sneezing," is the popular exclamation. The ice works can make all the ice needed now-a-day, and as far as this section is concerned it would be well if they had a contract for the snow supply also.

RED MEN'S MASQUERADE BALL.

Annual Hop at The Mechanics' Pavilion—Sons of St. George.

Willamette Tribe No. 6, Improved Order of Red Men, gave their grand annual masquerade ball at the Mechanics' pavilion Saturday evening. The dance hall and spectators' lobby began to fill up at an early hour, and by 9 o'clock, when the grand carnival polonaise was announced, there were fully 1500 people in the building. The maskers turned out at least 200 strong, and a picturesque appearance they made. The costumes were neat and many of them original.

At 11:30 the dancers unmasked. A dancing programme of twelve numbers followed, and it was nearly 4 o'clock in the morning when the gay assembly dispersed.

Music was furnished by the Marine band, and Messrs. J. V. Lankin, Z. Zimmerman, A. P. Loewig, George J. Erdner and J. Oberender acted as committee of arrangements.

The following maskers were the successful competitors for the prizes:

Miss Alice Pierce, tambourine girl; handsomest lady's costume; silver toilet and jewel case.

Mr. Max Fesster, Spanish prince; handsomest gentleman's costume, marbleized mantel clock.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE.

The Sons of St. George gave another of their enjoyable entertainments at Red Men's hall Saturday evening. The programme opened with an exhibition of views by Mr. Dunstane, after which Mr. Fraiser, of the St. Andrew Society, entertained the audience with a selection from Dickens' Pickwick Papers.

Through the kindness of Mr. Letcher, manager of the Standard theater, Mr. and Mrs. Clark appeared in songs and dances, LaDrew, the female impersonator, in character sketches, and Ralph Whitlock and Master McDonald, in athletic exhibitions.

The songs of the president, F. Vivian, were well received, as were also the banjo and bones duet of Messrs. McGrath and Casswell and the "darkey" sermon given by Past President W. T. Gardner.

The entertainment closed with the conferring of the third, or comic, degree on Messrs. Jones, Hodkins and Smith. There was a large attendance and all were well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Public Interest Increasing in the New Opera House—"Rooms to Let" at Cordray's—Minstrels at New Park.

As the time approaches for the opening of the Marquam Grand Opera house, the interest in the event is on the increase. The unusual strength of the opening attraction, a grand English opera company of 112 members, with a complete orchestra of thirty pieces and a large and well trained chorus, all headed by a prima donna of exceptional ability in the person of Miss Emma Juch, and a number of capable solo artists, tends to create a feeling of expectation rather novel with Portland people.

Society people also are on the qui vive for this operatic event, and several prominent ladies in the social world have expressed their intention of honoring the occasion by attending in full evening dress without hats or bonnets.

Already there are a number of persons who cannot attend the public auction of seats at Masonic hall on next Monday afternoon, who have given commissions for the purchase of seats.

CORDRAY'S MUSEE-THEATER.

"Rooms to Let," an amusing farce comedy, will receive its first production at this house to-night and it is expected that it will afford the patrons of this house many hearty laughs during its run.

The Musee bill will be as entertaining as ever.

NEW PARK THEATER.

Mr. Charles W. Pringle, manager of Richards' and Pringles' Georgia Minstrels is in the city and says that his company, with Billy Kersands, is on the road from California and expect to open for a four nights' engagement at this house on Thursday night if they reach the city in time.

AMONG THE FRATERNITIES.

Albany's Masonic Temple—Lodge Work Quiet—Out of Town Reports.

On Saturday evening last the Sons of St. George had a grand entertainment at Workmen's hall, corner of Second and Salmon streets. The performance opened with a series of stereographic views, then short addresses by members, with literary and musical productions to conclude the ceremonies. The hall was well filled, and every one present enjoyed the occasion to their entire satisfaction.

George Wright Post's masquerade Friday night was a success in every way.

Preparations are making for a large delegation to go up to Eugene to the grand encampment February 12.

Masonic.

Grand Master Christopher Taylor is still lying at his home, Dayton, Yamhill county, in a precarious condition.

The grand lodge will take charge of the dedication of the new Masonic temple at Albany on February 22. A grand time is expected.

Sol Friedenthal, senior warden of Harmony lodge, has taken a trip to California, to be gone a couple of weeks.

A. O. U. W.

This has been a very quiet week in the city lodges. It seems that the excitement of the holidays and the installation following has caused a temporary lull in work, besides the great number of sick has reduced the attendance at lodge meetings.

Multnomah No. 48 will have two initiations this evening. An interesting time is anticipated and members are invited to be present.

Portland lodge No. 27 had quite a large sick list last month, but the number is greatly reduced now.

Hope lodge No. 1 starts the year with a good set of officers and several applications for membership.

The reports of recorders are reaching the grand recorder's office slowly. In many cases they are incorrect and have to be returned to be put in proper shape.

Members of Industry lodge No. 8 are proud of their new officers. The M. W. is one of the youngest members in the lodge and one of the best posted in the secret work.

The new lodge at Albina is doing well. The charter is still open and many are taking advantage of it become members at a reduced price and have their names enrolled as charter members.

I. O. O. F.

The officers of Home lodge, No. 98, Stephen's addition, East Portland, are working hard to perfect themselves in the secret work. They meet and drill twice a week.

Grand Secretary A. N. Gamble is receiving the reports of secretaries throughout the state for the term ending December 31st. Thus far the indications are a handsome increase in membership, and a healthy state of affairs generally.

Harmony encampment, No. 11, will install their officers to-morrow evening. Ellison encampment has been invited to attend in a body. It is the intention to honor the last camp, by the first with a grand banquet at the close of the installation. For a long time the greatest fraternal feeling has existed between these two encampments, and Harmony now takes the opportunity to show her fraternal regard for Ellison by giving this banquet in her honor. It is intended to be a grand re-union of the two camps, and all members, and visiting patriarchs are expected to be present.

Ellison encampment failed to install their officers last Tuesday, as they should have done, on account of the auditing committee not being able to report. On Tuesday, the 28th, the installation will occur sure.

Harmony encampment will give a reception to Ellison encampment Tuesday evening January 21st. The reception will wind up with a grand banquet. Every member of Ellison encampment is expected to be present.

Progress lodge worked the first degree on Monday evening and will have work in the initiatory degree this Monday evening.

Samaritan lodge will confer the second degree next Wednesday evening.

Ellison encampment will have two candidates for the patriarchal degree at their next meeting.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur Springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

Cured by Cuticura

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completely covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I did. He took one and one-half bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the CUTICURA on his sores and the CUTICURA SOAP in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the CUTICURA SOAP and rubbing in the CUTICURA, one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT being used. They have proved successful in every case. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment.

Itching and Burning

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your CUTICURA REMEDIES so highly recommended, concluded to give them a trial, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and RESOLVENT internally for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

CATARRH HAY FEVER CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

A NEW TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been discovered which permanently cures the most aggravated cases of these distressing diseases by a few simple applications made (two weeks apart) by the patient at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.

IN THE RING; ON THE WATER

A Weekly Review of Some of the Leading Sporting Events.

Portland Athletic Club—Dempsey Not Dead—Jackson and Sullivan—Big Sloggers—Hanlan Interviewed—Good Condition.

The work of starting a first-class athletic club in Portland is still going on, and Morgan now has the names of eighty-four applicants, and among them are many of the best known young men of Portland. At the suggestion of a number, a public meeting will be held in the Pavilion on Monday evening, January 27, and a formal notice signed by some of the leaders in the movement will be issued in a few days, and it is likely a club directorate will be chosen at the meeting.

"DEMPSEY NOT DEAD."

Under the caption of "Dempsey Not Dead; the 'Nonpareil' a Lively Corpse," the San Francisco Chronicle of Friday, January 17, says:

The statement that Jack Dempsey was at death's door caused quite a rush of alarmed friends to the middle-weight champion's quarters at the Neptune Gardens, Alameda. Those who expected to see Dempsey propped up in bed with pillows and gasping for breath were agreeably surprised to learn that he had not been in his room since 7:20 A. M., when he arose and took a ramble of a few miles for exercise before breakfast. While the anxious friends were holding an indignation meeting in front of the training quarters Dempsey returned with Denny Kelleher, looking like anything but a man who had arranged to call on the undertaker. The champion middle-weight had the deep and sonorous cough that distinguishes the thousands of victims of influenza that are now breathing anathemas on the weather in this city.

Aside from this manifestation, however, and the slight paleness that comes of copious doses of cough medicine and temporary loss of appetite, there was nothing unusual about the pugilist. His eye was bright and his complexion clear, and when he spoke, the vigor of his allusions to the man who had written him up as dying, and the earnestness of his threats of repaying the compliment if ever the hapless scribe gets within the scope of his fist, showed that he was a very lively corpse. To the Chronicle reporter who inspected the alleged decedent Dempsey stated that he had been laid up for ten days with a most violent cold. He had neglected it at first and it settled on his chest and completely stopped his training. Under the care of a competent physician, however, he had mastered the trouble and expects to be all right next week and able to resume work. He has not run down to 126 pounds, as stated, and his steps is just as light as ever.

While the reporter was talking to Dempsey, Denny Costigan came out of the hotel to tell him that Mrs. Dempsey desired to see him, and the middle-weight skipped across the muddy street in two jumps and shot through the heavy rain as actively as if he had never been unwell. When he returned he stated that he would ask for a postponement of the match with Professor McCarthy, on the 29th inst., as he had been prevented both by his cold and the ceaseless rain from getting into proper condition.

Assistant Secretary Richardson, of the California Athletic Club, also visited Dempsey yesterday, and reported to President Fulda that he had found the alleged corpse in the act of getting a shave at the barber's, a mile from his training quarters. Secretary Richardson thought Dempsey's cold was severe enough to justify him in asking a postponement, but that is a matter that will have to be settled by the directors next Monday night.

When the match with McCarthy was made, Dempsey insisted on a deposit of $250 being put up to guarantee the appearance of the men in the ring on the 29th inst. Under this arrangement McCarthy might claim the forfeit, but the Australian is a very manly fellow and has no desire for anything but a fair fight. He stated yesterday that he wanted to see Dempsey well and would make no attempt to crowd a man who happened to be unfortunate enough to fall sick while training. The match will surely be postponed to February, as it will take Dempsey two weeks to fully recover from his cold and at least three weeks after that to get in condition to fight. The Needham-Kerrigan match is set for February and the Carroll-McAuliffe fight is to come off in March. Carroll has also got "the grip," however. Kerrigan has left Boston for San Francisco, and according to a dispatch received last night by President Fulda, will be here in a few days.

CHOYNSKI VS. M'LARNEY.

The Choynski-McLarney match is now the topic of discussion among the sports around town, and the "Irish Giant" gains additional admirers as the day of fate rolls near. Many predict his wonderfully increasing quickness under Trainer Turnbull's care will bring him out a victor against the clever Choynski, although many of the latter's friends say he will be hailed the winner. The arrangements for the match, which takes place at 10 o'clock next Saturday night at the Mechanic's pavilion will be perfect and the ring and seats so arranged that all can see the two gladiators at their work and the doors will be opened promptly at 7 o'clock. Several exhibition matches will precede the main event, which will take place exactly on time as advertised. The agreement which will be signed on Choynski's arrival, will call for a winner, or the receipts will be turned over by Manager Morgan to charity.

THE ARRIVAL OF CHOYNSKI.

Joseph Choynski, the opponent of McLarney, the "Irish Giant," in the glove contest, to be given in the Mechanics' pavilion on the evening of the 25th, arrived from San Francisco, accompanied by a friend, on the steamer State of California last evening.

Choynski, though in good trim, will at once go into training with Professor Corbett as trainer. His weight is already at "condition" mark, and he will take nothing but light exercise. In personal appearance, the San Francisco boy bears a close resemblance to Dave Campbell. He is taller than Campbell, and not quite so broad, but the faces of the two are very similar in form and expression. Campbell's features are perhaps larger, and a little more prominent, but, further than this, very little difference in the appearance of the two can be observed.

THE JACKSON-SULLIVAN MATCH.

There is considerable pertubation in the the California club over the decision of Sullivan that he will not battle with Peter Jackson for less than $25,000. The club directors had got into their heads that they had a sort of proprietary interest in the big Boston slogger and were sure of getting him to fight Jackson for $15,000, the winner to take all. Speaking of the prospects of the match, the San Francisco Chronicle of the 17th says:

When Director McLaughlin came back a few weeks ago President Fulda had a confidential chat with his confrere, and McLaughlin stated that Sullivan was all right. The gallant major had cracked a couple bottles of wine with the big Bostonian, and stated that he had authority only to offer a purse of $16,000.

"That's too small," said Sullivan. "I'll not meet Jackson for less than $15,000."

"Will you meet him if the club gives a purse of $15,000?" asked Major McLaughlin, and, according to the major's solemn declaration, the burly Bostonian answered in the affirmative, and the two then and there shook hands over the contract and ratified it with another bottle.

When the California Club, on the night of the Weir-Murphy farce-comedy, voted to give the directors power to offer any purse that they deemed proper, the match between Sullivan and Jackson seemed to Mr. Fulda to be an assured fact. He thoughtfully penned the following dispatch, which has been mangled, exaggerated and twisted into most extraordinary shapes by the daily press:

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.

To John L. Sullivan: Club authorizes me to match yourself and Peter Jackson for purse of $15,000, winner take all. Jackson accepted your terms. Answer our expense. L. R. FULDA.

Sullivan's response was:

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.

To L. R. Fulda, California Athletic Club: Will make no arrangements until through with Mississippi authorities. Final and last terms are $25,000 to meet Jackson. J. L. SULLIVAN.

Thus the matter stands. The club will not give $25,000, so that the prospects of a fight between the acknowledged white champion and the acknowledged black champion of the world are not br[illegible]. Sullivan's ultimatum is supposed to have been influenced by that shrewd manager, Parson Davies, who has returned from England in advance of Jackson.

THE BIG SLOGGERS.

A dispatch from New York dated January 12 says:

Jack Fallon, who for five months past has been in England and on the continent giving sparring exhibitions with Peter Jackson, was a passenger on the steamship Germanic which reached her dock this morning.

"I never had so good a time in my life," he said. "Jackson became a favorite from the time we landed, and London swells fairly lionized 'Parson' Davies. I was in Jackson's corner when he fought Smith, and do not exaggerate when I say the Britisher is entirely outclassed by Jackson. Jackson is certainly a wonderful fighter. His performances abroad were simply wonderful, and he has cleared above $20,000 by his trip.

"Mitchell never attempted to get a match with Jackson until a few weeks ago. At that time his match with Jem Mace was on. To have accepted his challenge meant considerable delay to Jackson, so he explained his position to the entire satisfaction of the public.

"People who saw the Sullivan-Mitchell fight and were present when Smith and Jackson fought are of the opinion that Jackson will beat Sullivan, but as one was a ring fight and the other was a glove fight, I fail to see how they can arrive at a conclusion on that comparison."

"Is Slavin considered a good match for Sullivan by English sporting men?"

"Not as I understand the matter. Slavin is a great man in the ring, but with the gloves I think that John L. is master. I saw Slavin box and he is certainly a slower man than Jackson."

BOTH IN PRIME CONDITION.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Golden Gate Athletic Club recently held, the committee appointed to visit the training quarters of Jimmy Carroll and Mike Lucie reported both men in excellent condition, and inside of the middle-weight limit. The selection of a referee will be made to-day (Monday). A nominating committee will be selected by the club on the evening of the Lucie-Carrol contest, to make nominations for the ensuing year, the election to take place on the evening of the McCoy-Gibson contest, to be held on February 12.

OARS AND ROWLOCKS.

The Philadelphia Press of a very recent date has the following in regard to Edward Hanlan, from the pen of a sporting correspondent:

The presence of Edward Hanlan in this city with the Dark Secret Company gave me a much coveted opportunity for talking over past events and present prospects with the ex-champion. Besides which it was the renewing of an old friendship, which is always a pleasure of itself, and I don't know when I have had such a treat as Ned Hanlan afforded me in a two hours' chat. The ex-champion, when I used to know him intimately, that was up to about five years ago, was inclined to be rather quiet and reserved in conversation, but now he is a most entertaining talker, with plenty to say and plenty in what he does say. Never having been in the antipodes and the present state of aquatics in that very important section of the professional world having got somewhat muddled, to one not on the spot and conversant with the merits of the aspirants for the championship. One of the first questions was as to the prominent oarsmen there.

HANLAN TALKS.

Well, there are three men entitled, in my opinion, to row for the Australian championship. These are Beach, of whom you know all that is necessary. Then come Stansbury and McLean. Neither of these two have done anything wonderful as yet, but they are men likely to have improved and have such a large following. They ought to decide between themselves which is the best man of the three, and then let him row our best man a race in England for the world's championship. I don't think an American ought to go to Australia again, at least as things are now, and I doubt very much whether you could get one of them to row in America, though it is time my visits there should be returned, so I say the neutral course on the Thames as being fair to both men.

Tell me something about Australia as you know it. Well, it is certainly a great country, and the people are the nicest and the most hospitable one could wish to meet. I can say nothing too good of my treatment there from first to last. It is a land running over with money for sporting events. At the Melbourne cup race I saw 127,000 people present. I have seen a list of 600 entries for a foot handicap there. At the Carrington grounds where they decide many of these 130 yards foot handicaps you can win a barrel of money if you back the right man. A man from this country is not likely to do it in a hurry, for he must start from the strangers mark at 5 yards from scratch, and to some men he would have to give twenty yards start. Skinner, the American, was running there for two years before he could get shifted far enough forward to be sure of winning. The men who kept him all that time put him on to win £4,000. That is, they made bets to win that amount of money and turned them over to him as well as giving him the prize money £1,000 or £1,500. I forget the exact amount, anyway he got £5,000 for himself, and you may imagine how much his backers stood to win when they could afford to be so liberal.

TRICKY BUSINESS.

They are not above doing some tricky business there sometimes. One man ran in three heats one night, won them all, and got away with all the bets. In one heat he wore a beard, in another a moustache and ran with a clean face in the third. The Carrington grounds are on a block in the city, and on both sides of the track there are tiers of seats running up to twenty-five or thirty feet above the track level, which will accommodate 25,000 people. The races are run at night by electric light, and the interest and excitement are intense.

What kind of rowing courses have they got?

The principal one is that on the Paramatta river at Sidney, and I don't like it at all. The first time I looked at it I felt somehow that I would lose if I rowed there, and I did, as you know. It is a very hard course, besides being an unfair one. On one side the angles are very sharp, and the opposite shore is cut up by deep bays. There, it is just like that—holding out his hand with fingers spread. At one minute you are in a channel 200 yards wide, and the next minute opposite the mouth of a bay, you have a width of water of a mile or more. The first angle is the worst and the man with the left hand station is considered to have two lengths the best of it. Of course it was never my luck to get that station.
